'We Eat More Hotdogs Now'

"We eat a lot of hotdogs and hash these days," said Mrs. Barbara Klinkner, a South San Francisco mother of five daughters.

As if inflation were not enough, her husband, Ralph, is not working, because he was injured recently on the job.

The five girls range in age from 7 to 20. Mrs. Klinkner, who does not drive, works as a yard aide at nearby Sunshine Gardens School.

How do the hard-pressed Klinkners attempt to get the most for their money?

Discreet shopping is one way, Mrs. Klinkner said recently.

During the week Barbara lists foods the family needs. Then, weekly — sometimes every other week — Ralph will study supermarket advertisements, trying to find on sale the items his family needs.

Ralph drives Barbara to the markets, starting with those farthest away to avoid wasting gasoline.

"We shop for sales, not so much for the brand name," said Barbara.

"We take the store brand if we find it to be just as good."

Ralph held up two boxes of biscuit mix, to emphasize their point. Of identical size and ingredients, the national-brand box was marked $1.29 while the store brand was 79 cents.

The Klinkners buy cheaper cuts of meat. He also buys cold cuts in bulk — a great saving — and slices it himself.

The Klinkners also buy day-old baked goods, use home-baked bread, buy in bulk, and use concentrated milk with no loss in taste, they said.

Ralph, a former baker who still likes to decorate a cake, is most shocked at the price of powdered sugar and shortening.

And breakfast cereal is "way out of proportion," he said.

The price of packaging is one cause of food inflation, Ralph said.

When you pay a girl to wrap a pound, he said, "you are paying for convenience, not for food."

The Klinkner family for years has taken part in the local 4-H program, but it appears threatened by inflation.

"With the price of grain now," Klinkner said, "no 4-Her can receive enough for his animals to pay for his cost in feeding it."

Food Prices Continue to Rise Faster Than Wages

By JACK BIK

"I'm lucky to be in this business. After all, everybody has to eat," said Gene Perelli, owner of the Grand Leader Market, an independent market in downtown San Bruno.

Food, along with housing and utilities, is what consumers buy first, no matter how high prices go.

However, food prices, with a few notable exceptions, do not seem to have gone up as steeply as some other commodities.

The August, 1973 to August, 1974 increase in food prices for the Bay Area came to 8.8 per cent, compared to an even nine per cent nationwide, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. It is still higher than pay increases which many labor groups have received. The Department of Agriculture puts it in different terms.

During 1973, the cost of all U.S. farm produced foods an average family (a little under four persons) ate came to $1,537. According to latest prices, the price of the same foods for 1974 would total $1,731.

The most expensive item in the "market basket," meats, rose to $515.94, or $7.94 more than in 1973. Dairy products rose by $63.32 or $302.92. Baked goods and cereals rose by $72.06, to $275.57.

Stan Johnson, director of the Bay Area Grocers Association, said the nature of the industry prevents grocers from selling for a penny less than they do today.

Salaries paid by markets have risen 47 per cent in the last three years, he said, and the average local grocer must mark up all his items by 22 per cent, to cover expenses.

The specific gross markup varies — meats are 25 per cent, produce 30 per cent, and groceries, around 18 per cent.

Labor costs are higher on the Peninsula than anywhere in the country, Johnson claimed.

"A week does not go by that the retailer does not get added to his products a higher price," he said.

Those big brown bags have gone up to 2 1/2 cents apiece. That means that, with the normal profit of one per cent of gross sales, unless $2 worth of merchandise is packed into the bag, the grocer is losing money.

Also cutting into the one per cent margin on sales are factors such as replacement of grocery carts, write-offs for bad checks and shoplifting losses. Every time a customer walks off with a cart, the store must sell $4,000 more in merchandise to make up the loss, Johnson said.

Leo Musso, president of Quality Foods Inc., (QFI) headquartered in Colma, said customers have been reacting to steeply rising prices by "trading-off." He said he has noticed great changes in buying habits.

For instance, sales of half gallons of ice cream and large cartons of cottage cheese have fallen off. But sales of pasta — such as noodles and spaghetti — has tripled. With the steep increase in sugar prices, artificial sweeteners are "selling like crazy," Musso said.

Meat sales have declined by 10 to 12 per cent, especially in "primal cuts," such as roast beef and steaks, he said. Sales of many cheaper cuts of meats and fowl, such as chicken, have increased, he said.

Musso said he has seen a resurgence in fresh foods and vegetables.

"It's in very good supply — even lower in many areas."

Frozen crop sales have gone down, but concentrated frozen juice sales have gone up, he added.

"We're out of the waste economy," Musso declared. "We're eating the ends of the loaf now."

Meat substitutes, such as fish and cheese, are going strong, while pet foods are "going out of this world." And Musso wonders if some of it is being used by humans.

He said larger sizes of commodities are selling well, since shoppers are now looking more at the cost per ounce, as well as watching nutrition more.

Egg sales are sluggish, but Musso attributed that to fear of cholesterol.

Musso said he believes that people are watching closely both waste and price. He said those persons hurt most by higher food prices are those in middle income who bought their homes in the suburbs, seeking a better life for their families and are beset by home mortgages, car and appliance payments.

If the big supermarkets have a hard time keeping prices from leaping too far ahead, what about the neighborhood stores?

Jim Pitt, owner of the 7-Eleven Speedy Market on Angus and Huntington Avenues, takes a glum view of the situation.

In his six years there, the value of his stock has grown from $12,000 to $20,000, yet it consists of the same items — and he makes no more money from sales.

Buying his stock in smaller quantities, he cannot get many discounts enjoyed by the supermarkets.

With his slightly higher prices — he depends upon extra service, location and hours to draw customers — he takes the brunt of customer-resistance to inflation.

He has to double and triple prices of such staples as rice and sugar and feels most annoyed by increases in such popular items as soft drinks — now reaching the price of beer.

Gene Perelli of the Grand Leader Market suggested inflation can be checked if — stores and consumers alike — reduce inventories, keeping only enough food on hand to take care of immediate needs.

Traffic Officer Hit

A South San Francisco man was arrested in San Francisco Monday in connection with a hit-and-run accident involving a traffic officer, who was directing traffic at a San Bruno intersection Monday morning.

Booked on a charge of felony hit-and-run was Edward Junior Barela III, 25, 2320 Olympic Drive, South San Francisco, authorities disclosed.

The victim, Alberto Tobar, 21, a community service officer employed by the department since July of 1973, was listed by Peninsula Hospital aides, as in satisfactory condition.

According to police, Tobar was directing traffic at the intersection of San Mateo and San Bruno avenues when he noticed a car, heading west on San Bruno Avenue, attempting to make a left turn across the railroad tracks onto San Mateo Avenue.

Police said Tobar, motioned to the driver not to make the turn, because of the heavy rush-hour traffic, but instead to continue down the avenue.

The driver, stopped, then suddenly made a right turn into the officer. Police said it was not known whether the driver hit the officer directly or skidded into him.

Although knocked to the ground, police said Tobar was able to get the license number of the fleeing auto and also its description.

An all-points bulletin was announced, and the alleged driver of the hit-and-run vehicle was taken into custody in San Francisco.

Four-City Holding Facility

DC Jail Agreement Expected

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Agreement on a four-city holding facility for prisoners awaiting arraignment is expected to be reached between participating North County cities within two weeks.

South San Francisco, Pacifica, San Bruno and Daly City officials are studying outlines for establishment of a joint powers agency to run the jail.

Daly City will be the site of the proposed facility.

San Mateo County's second largest city, Daly City already has a large prisoner holding facility beneath City Hall.

Daly City has been furnishing similar services to North County cities for the past several months on a contractual basis.

If the joint powers agency is set up, it will be governed by a five-member board — the police chief from each of the four participating cities, plus a fifth person selected by the police chiefs.

Funds for the facility — to be known as the Northern San Mateo County Pre-Arraignment Detention Facility (PDF) — will be allotted by the county from a grant received from the National Institute for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

Proponents of the facility claim costs of holding prisoners for arraignment will be dramatically cut.

With the exception of Daly City, North County cities now must escort prisoners to Redwood City jail for booking and incarceration until they are arraigned.

Police point out this is both time consuming and costly to drive some 100 miles round trip.

One the Agency comes into being, an agreement will be signed between them and San Mateo County in order to insure the county will fund the program.

Civilian "Detention Technicians" (jailers), will be hired by the police chiefs to operate the jail.

They will function under direct supervision of the Daly City Police Department inasmuch as the facility will be located within that department. City Manager David Rowe explained to the city council Thursday.

An "operations steering committee" will also be established to oversee day-to-day operation of the detention facility, with the Daly City Treasurer and Finance Director being responsible for receipt, custody and disbursement of all monies collected under terms of the agreement, it was understood.

It was expected the jail would open on Jan. 1, 1975, with training of the DF staff starting in mid-November.

The agreement, if accepted by all member cities, would be in effect for one year.

Any city may withdraw with 60 days written notice, and detention may be offered to other cities if the governing board agrees. Only two other cities — Colma and Brisbane — have not shown any interest in the facility to date.

Serramonte Modular Scheduling Is Cancelled

Stirred by recent racial violence at Serramonte High School, parents, students, teachers and Jefferson Union High School District officials met last Monday and Tuesday night in a special meeting to discuss the problems.

The two gatherings, the first attended by over 200 and the second by about 100, were spiced with emotional speeches, blunt accusations and a list of demands in behalf of the Latino students as answers were sought for the troubled Daly City campus.

On Oct. 9, a brewing confrontation between Latino and black students erupted, as a number of fights broke out. Police were called on campus to quell the disturbances and remained there for that week. Twenty-two students were suspended and a number of weapons, including knives, chains and billy clubs were confiscated.

According to Serramonte Principal Wayne Kurlak, a few incidents that occurred during the weeks prior to Oct. 9 laid the foundation for the melee. One fight on a school bus and another in a classroom began building tension on campus.

Ironically, Kurlak said it was a fight between a Latino and a black who were only "playfully wrestling" that set off the fracas. The Latino student fell off a railing during that apparently friendly scuffle.

The troubles caused an increasing fear among the school community over the racial tension, and led to the special meetings to get to the roots of the problems.

In response to the turmoil, the board of trustees took four steps:

✓ That students who habitually cut class or are tardy or possess an illegal weapon on campus will have to appear before the school board, with failure to show resulting in exclusion or expulsion.

✓ That the administration will seek to assign to Serramonte some additional school buses, in response to complaints that crowded conditions on the vehicles led to some of the tensions.

✓ That the administration study and determine if there is a need for bus aides, and to report the findings to the board Dec. 1.

✓ That the present modular schedule at Serramonte be converted to one that more closely follows a traditional schedule.

The trustees also approved an administration-drafted reply to the Latino demands. The demands included that the suspended students be reinstated and that the suspension be stricken from their records; double standards and prejudices on campus be investigated and terminated; bilingual and bicultural education be guaranteed to all students; student pickets who missed class not be punished; and that the metal "afro-forks" be banned from campus.

Regarding the amnesty for suspended or absent students, the administration said it was prohibited from such action by district regulations. It was also pointed out that a student's discipline records are destroyed once the student leaves the school.

Since the demands were released, all but one of the suspension requirements have been completed, and all but one student is back in school.

The administration also agreed that any such double standard or prejudice that exists should be terminated and invited anyone with such information to tell the board.

As for the controversial "afro fork," the administration admitted they could be used as a dangerous weapon, but that it couldn't ban the instruments. However, the reply said that any type of wearing apparel, including

Vote 'No' on Proposition A

Many supporters of Proposition A, which would set up a transit district for our county, argue that, while the proposal has defects, it is better than nothing. We disagree, because our transit problems are not that acute, and because the proposed district has too many serious defects, some of which are outlined here.

At the outset, the district directors are not to be elected by, continued in office, or removed from office by direct vote of the taxpayers.

Public officials who have the power to spend money and collect property taxes should be directly responsible to the voters, and not be insulated from the taxpayers by an appointed status. Yet, all of the directors of the district would be appointed.

Two of the directors are to be members of the County Board of Supervisors, and a third would be selected by the board; three are to be members of city councils; three additional directors would be chosen by the first six. These nine directors are all to be appointed.

Nowhere is there any provision for direct election or removal by the voters of any director as such. We can vote out of office school trustees, Harbor District commissioners, city councilmen and county supervisors, but not these transit directors.

Furthermore, the act permits a bond issue to be passed by 60 per cent, instead of the customary two-thirds, vote of the people.

The act includes a number of burdensome labor provisions which were written into the bill to secure the votes of labor sympathizers in the legislature and which could create wage and benefit inequities and lead to costly strikes.

The act requires the district to buy out all existing systems which might be adversely affected by any transit plan to be proposed by the district. Southern Pacific, Greyhound and taxi companies would be excluded, but the district would be required to acquire any local publicly or privately owned transit system operating entirely within the county as of Jan. 1, 1974, or which operated at least 75 per cent of its revenue miles in 1973 within the county.

In our judgment, if Redwood City, for instance, wished to continue its minibus system, it should not have to sell out to the district.

The bill has been publicized as providing a countywide bus system. It does not. The directors are empowered to recommend any type of transit — bus, fixed rail, at ground level, overhead, or underground.

We are informed that many of these defects were accepted by the legislative managers of the transit bill because otherwise they could not have secured legislative approval.

We are also informed, however, that a transit district does not have to be created by the legislature, and that the Board of Supervisors can propose to the voters a transit district which does not include these serious defects. Such a district would not have the power to impose a sales tax or to pass bonds on less than a two-thirds vote.

In our view, we should pursue the concept of a transit district whose directors are directly elected rather than accept and approve a district which will be governed by appointees. At least let us give the voters and taxpayers a chance to vote in or out of office the district directors.

It is not enough to say that a transit plan must have the approval of 60 per cent of the voters, or that a majority of voters must approve any taxes to be levied by the district. Let the voters also approve and elect the directors who are going to operate the plan and manage the tax revenues which are approved and collected.

Vote 'No' on Proposition A.

Elect Gilbert Rodli To Assembly

The new 19th Assembly District, in which Democrat Assemblyman Louis J. Papan is running for re-election, deserves better representation in Sacramento than it has had during the past two years.

Gilbert "Gib" Rodli Jr. of Burlingame, the Republican candidate running against Papan, would provide the kind of representation needed in the district, which includes all or part of the 10 northernmost cities in San Mateo County.

Rodli brings a strong business and civic background, as well as a thorough knowledge of the operations of government, into the race. He is a government relations consultant, representing local industries before various governmental agencies.

He serves as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Burlingame School District, and is a former YMCA director.

Rodli is a former president of the taxpayer watchdog Governmental Research Council, a founding director of the Citizens Council on Drug Abuse, a member of the Planning and Conservation League of California and of the Coalition of Concerned Citizens, and a former director of the Family Service Agency of San Mateo County.

He is committed to economy in government, in contrast with the record of his opponent, who voted for the great majority of major spending bills in the 1973-74 legislative session and who ranked as one of the big spenders of the Assembly.

Rodli, as his background shows, understands the need to preserve the environment, but believes that there must be a balance of environmental and economic considerations in land use planning by governmental agencies.

He is pledged to give his constituents effective representation, unlike his opponent, who has been too involved in playing the game of power politics in Sacramento to keep in close touch with his district.

The Post recommends to its readers in the 19th Assembly District that they vote for Gilbert Rodli Jr. in the Nov. 5 general election.

Boerio, Matosich For Harbor Board

In the relatively short time that Charles Boerio and Marin Matosich have served as members of the Board of Commissioners of the San Mateo County Harbor District they have shown genuine concern for the public interest in the planning and development of Pillar Point Harbor at Half Moon Bay.

They deserve to be elected to full four-year terms in the Nov. 5 general election.

Boerio, a Daly City accountant, was appointed to the board last January; Matosich, also an accountant and a resident of San Mateo, was appointed in May.

During the past year these men have gone about the job of carrying out the people's mandate at Pillar Point in a careful, businesslike manner.

That mandate was signified in 1970 when the voters rejected an attempt by the County Board of Supervisors to dissolve the Harbor District. At stake was the district's plan for development of facilities for commercial and pleasure craft. The voters told the district, in effect, "Go ahead, but be careful."

Commissioners Boerio and Matosich are committed to the orderly development of the harbor, while insisting on controls to assure the protection of the natural environment to the greatest possible degree. They stand together, as well, in their insistence that the cost of the project be held within reasonable limits and that there be a clear expectation that the harbor will become self-supporting.

These men have approached their commission duties in a commendable way, and should be continued in office. Vote for Charles Boerio and Marin Matosich on Nov. 5.

Re-elect Leo J. Ryan To Congress

Congressman Leo J. Ryan has represented the 11th California Congressional District during the past two years. He was elected to the United States Congress in 1972 after serving the preceding 10 years in the State Assembly as one of the assemblymen from San Mateo County.

Congressman Ryan, during his two years in office in the Congress, has demonstrated an awareness of his responsibility to the voters of San Mateo County and in particular to the voters of his district.

He is currently working with representatives of approximately 5,000 United States international air carrier employees who live in San Mateo County to solve the problems which are currently facing Pan American World Airways. He has participated in successful efforts in the Congress to rescind Environmental Protection Agency parking regulations which would have substantially hurt the business community by imposing unreasonable tax levies on employers who have provided parking space for their employees. In the field of foreign trade Congressman Ryan has been working with officials of the Port of Redwood City to expand that port's capacity to handle foreign trade.

Together with Congressman Barry Goldwater Jr., and others, Congressman Ryan has co-sponsored a bill to protect the privacy of our citizens from excessive use of information by various government agencies. This bill would prevent the Internal Revenue Service from releasing private information without a court order.

Officials of the City of San Mateo have been endeavoring to have the Army Corps of Engineers solve their problem of replacing old levees to halt bay water encroachment. Congressman Ryan has been assisting officials of San Mateo in this effort.

The foregoing are merely a few illustrations of the type of service which Congressman Ryan has been performing in behalf of the voters of his district and in our judgment they amply illustrate his awareness of the problems of his district and his efforts to use his position in Congress to assist in the solution of those problems. He should be returned to Congress to enable him to carry on this type of representation.

Vote for the Re-election of Leo J. Ryan to the United States Congress for the 11th California District.

Sixth District Voters Should Elect Moscone

State Senate Majority Leader George Moscone, the incumbent in the drastically realigned Sixth Senatorial District, should be elected to serve that district for another four years in Sacramento.

The district encompasses a portion of San Francisco and the northern part of San Mateo County, extending south to include all of Pacifica, Millbrae, Burlingame and Hillsborough, and approximately half of the city of San Mateo.

Moscone can be counted on to serve his new San Mateo County constituency well, as he has his San Francisco area in the past. To that end, he has acquainted himself with the attributes and problems of his new territory and is prepared to deal with them.

He has pledged to be accessible to his constituency in both counties.

Sen. Moscone believes that he can turn his split-county representation into a positive force by encouraging officials of the two counties to work together to solve mutual problems and by offering his services as go-between.

His political career began in 1963 when he was elected to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. He was elected to the State Senate in 1966 and was re-elected in 1970. In addition to party leadership roles in the Senate, he has served on many important Senate committees and has been the author of much efficacious legislation.

San Mateo County is fortunate to have this energetic and influential man available to serve its needs. Voters in the Sixth District should do their part to see to it that he is continued in office at the Nov. 5 general election.

'Yes' Vote Urged On Prop. M

The South San Francisco Unified School District, whose reserve fund has plummeted to a distressingly low $26,000, is one of six San Mateo County school districts compelled to seek voter approval of a tax rate increase Nov. 5.

This measure if adopted would authorize the South San Francisco school district's trustees to boost the tax rate 50 cents from the current $4.35 to $4.85 per each $100 of assessed valuation.

Such an increase would bring the tax rate to within a cent of the tax level last year. The tax rate was reduced this year, because SB 90 formulas mandated that the tax ceiling be reduced by 24 cents and the district made its final payment on a 20 year old state building loan, decreasing the tax rate by another 27 cents.

School administrators point out that SB 90 has penalized the district for being frugal.

The district has been slicing always at its reserves to finance its programs in an era of continually rising costs.

The funds do not exist for the district to keep doing that. It must either get more money or sacrifice some of its splendid programs and services.

The district's administrators contend that the $17.6 million budget will be inadequate to maintain even the existing, generally high level of education, which South San Francisco children and their parents have a right to expect.

The district is now spending $1,068 per pupil. Proposition M asks voters to approve raising that figure by $95.

Although the district seeks an immediate 50-cent tax rate increase, the Board of Trustees has agreed to use only 35 cents of it the first year.

We urge a "Yes" vote on Proposition M, which will erase an unrealistic figure (established 11 years ago) and will make severe cutbacks in education and service unnecessary.

OK Pacifica Bonds

A bond issue in the amount of $550,000 to meet 40 per cent of the cost of two major recreational facilities for the City of Pacifica will be offered for approval of the electorate at the November 5 election.

A 25-yard indoor swimming pool on Oceana High School grounds and eight lighted tennis courts on Terra Nova High School grounds will be provided if the bond issue is approved by two-thirds of the voters on election day. This will provide balanced recreational facilities for people of the north and south areas which will be made available at a cost of only $3.31 per year for the owner of a $30,000 home. The $550,000 bond issue will provide 40 per cent of the cost of this project. Jefferson Union High School District will provide the remaining 60 per cent of the cost from funds on hand.

It is commendable that the City of Pacifica and the school district work harmoniously together to provide these needed recreational facilities which will be available for general public use all year-round, except during school hours.

For this bond issue, The Post recommends a "yes" vote.

The Public Voice

Proposition A

Editor, The Times:

In an editorial, The Post argues and concludes that Proposition A is a bad transit solution.

We believe the facts show the opposite: that Proposition A is a good and basically sound transit solution. The reasons are: Proposition A gives power to the people, by direct vote. There can be no BART in San Mateo County without a vote of the people. There can be no property tax financing of mass transit in San Mateo County without a vote of the people. There can be no bonds for a fixed rail system in San Mateo County without a 60 per cent vote of the people.

What Proposition A will deliver is the possibility of a coordinated bus system within and between the cities of San Mateo County, something that is urgently needed by many sectors of the San Mateo County public: senior citizens, students, low-income working people, and all the others who don't own automobiles or desire an alternative to the automobile. A recent study shows there are 100,000 transit-dependent people in San Mateo County.

Such an inter-connection between the cities will be a real achievement in county-wide transportation and can serve as a future feeder system for mass transit if the people of San Mateo County decide at a later date that is what they want. It will be their choice.

The Post also makes much of the non-accountability of an appointed board of directors. We fail to see this point as a real issue in the transit debate. Five elected officials, both city and county, will serve on the nine member transit board and they are always accountable to the voters; there will be public member representation on the board of directors; and the board makeup is an attempt to have a geographic representation of the county. In any case, the Board of Supervisors legally cannot set up an alternative transit district with a separately elected board of directors.

We believe Proposition A's buy-out provisions are workable and reasonable, and the labor provisions no more burdensome than what is provided in State law for other public employees.

A large majority of the cities of San Mateo County who considered Proposition A have endorsed it because they welcome the opportunity to work together to fill an urgent need for their residents and because only a county-wide system can qualify for many state and federal funds, thereby keeping local costs to a minimum.

In summary, we believe Proposition A provides a workable set of tools to the people of San Mateo County so they can consider carefully their own transportation needs. It is the only feasible option for providing for the needs of those presently without cars or transportation, and it can offer an environmentally-sound alternative for those who do depend on autos.

Transit

Editor:

The Senior Citizens of Daly City and other residents look forward to a long overdue San Mateo County transit system. It is not only inconvenient and costly to get around in your own county, it is almost humiliating to always ask friends or neighbors for a ride.

Loneliness is a killer of the elderly. We have no transportation to get to the Senior Clubs to spend a few social hours with our peers. We cannot get to hospitals, doctors, or do our shopping for daily necessities. For instance, it takes two buses and 70 cents fare to get to the Kaiser Hospital from Daly City to Grand Avenue in South San Francisco. Since the new hospital is on El Camino Real we will have to go by Northern transit and Greyhound which will be more expensive. Traveling distance 10 minutes; waiting time one hour.

Elect Mrs. Altizio

Mrs. Jean Altizio has been involved in numerous South San Francisco educational activities — including Early Childhood Education — and deserves election to the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees Nov. 5.

We suggest that our readers seriously consider the impact of Mrs. Altizio's membership on several education advisory committees in the community and her leadership of three Parent Teacher Association units at elementary, junior high and high school levels.

Her own fine example of parental participation typifies a quest for open lines of communication in the district. Her devotion to the needs of children in education, in turn, has given her the knowledge and understanding necessary for competent Board of Trustee decision-making.

The district's parents should take advantage of these assets.

Mrs. Altizio's formula for creating a successful "educational environment" is as follows:

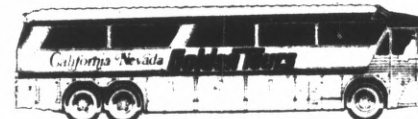

Give the children the basics in elementary school, refine and expand them in junior and senior high schools; obtain teachers and encourage them to develop their students' individual abilities; involve parents; use good materials; maintain well-used communication lines; and "add a liberal sprinkling of common sense and touch of humor throughout."

This makes sense to us.

ENGINE WOULDN'T STOP

This heavy engine ran off the end of the track Friday after the engineer, Harold Heffran, blacked out. The accident occurred on a siding alongside Southern Pacific's mainline in South San Francisco, near Linden Avenue. According to an S.P. spokesman, the crew gave the engineer a back-up signal, but he failed to stop, continuing for about a mile until the engine hit a heavy concrete abutment at the end of the track, and climbed up over it. He was reported in satisfactory condition today at Mary's Help Hospital.

Woman Beaten and Raped

A 22-year-old woman was badly beaten and raped early Sunday morning after her car was forced off highway 280 near Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City.

Police said a man driving a yellow Datsun pickup truck bumped into the young housewife's car in the south-bound lanes of the Junipero Serra Freeway about 3:30 a.m.

When she got out of her car to examine the damage, the man brandished a knife and forced her into his pickup truck.

He then drove to a deserted service station near the sprawling shopping center.

She told police the man beat her with his fists and raped her before taking her back to the vicinity of her car.

She was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to nearby Mary's Help Hospital where it was determined she had been raped.

The unidentified woman, who had been en route to her Menlo Park home was also treated for cuts and bruises.

Arts Group Sets Open Meeting

The future of the performing and visual arts in San Mateo County will be discussed by the public, performers, artists and art organizations at an open meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at San Mateo City Hall Council Chambers.

Central District Municipal Court Judge Edward Pliska, recently elected to his first full term as chairman of the San Mateo County Arts Council, will preside.

"We are hoping for community input to help us understand what our citizens really want in the way of arts services," said Bill Nemoynen, executive director of the Council.

Nemoynen said a recent study by the National Research Center for the Arts, Inc., reveals that the public's interest in the arts are greater and more varied than most experts had predicted.

Some of the questions to be faced, the Council indicated, include whether plans should be made for new facilities, what kinds of programs are needed to "fill the gaps in our cultural spectrum," and "who will pay the bill?"

The San Mateo County Arts Council has 25 member cultural organizations and operates services for them, as well as a system of art galleries in various county locations, as well as a neighborhood arts program.

Those attending are encouraged to prepare a brief statement and to call the Council offices at 141 Borel Ave., San Mateo, to be included on the agenda.

San Franciscan Killed in Collision

A 31-year-old San Francisco woman was fatally injured Thursday night when her compact car went out of control on a sharp curve in Brisbane and she smashed into a concrete abutment.

The victim was identified by Brisbane police officer Al Duerson as Sharon Durke, of 20 McCarthy St., San Francisco.

She was northbound on Old Bayshore Road in Brisbane about 9:40 when she lost control on the Sierra Point Curve and hit an abutment, police said.

Entitled to Back Pay, Benefits

Brisbane Ex-Chief Wins Court Battle

San Mateo County Superior Court judge William Lanam has ruled that former Brisbane police chief Billy E. Beard is entitled to back pay and benefits from the date of an agreement entered between him and the city council starting last year and ending in April, 1974.

entitled to back pay and benefits up to the end of this month, inasmuch as it appears the council never accepted his resignation or fired him from the $1,500 per month post.

In other words, Beard may still be chief of police, Corey said.

Judge Lanam also pointed out, in a letter of memorandum to Beard's attorney, George Corey of San Bruno, that the ex-chief may be Corey called the ruling "encouraging" and said he heard of the decision only Saturday, although the memorandum was filed on Oct. 16.

Last spring, a dispute arose between Beard and some members of the council resulting in the chief resigning over the announcement by the council that three men of the city's 10 man force would be fired as an economic measure.

Within hours after handing in the resignation, Beard withdrew it and apologized to the city staff and council, noting the best way to combat the cutback was to stay on as chief.

Former City Manager Walter Bednar next fired Beard, apparently with the support of the council.

After a series of public demonstrations supporting Beard, a meeting was held between Beard, Corey, council members and the city attorney to reach agreement on how to handle the matter.

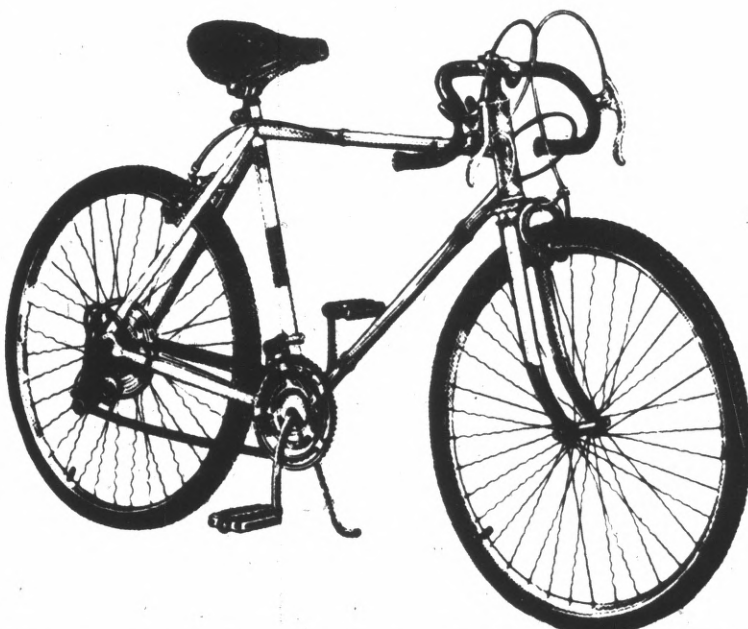

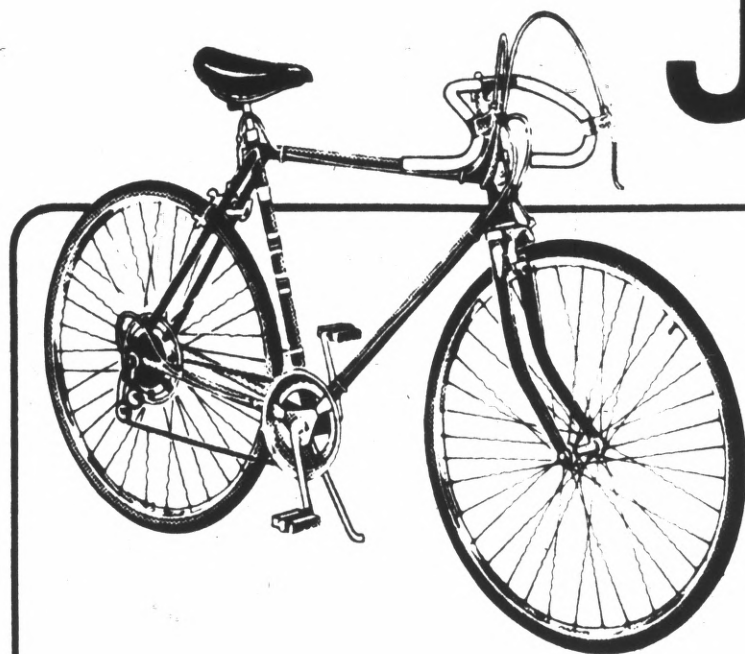

On April 2, 1974 agreement was reached between Corey, acting for Beard, and attorney Clarence B. Knight, for the city of Brisbane.

The council reneged on the agreement after charging certain conditions of the agreement were violated.

Brunans May Get a Little Traffic Relief

By BOB PETERSON

If San Bruno residents can be patient another month, the new signalization at the intersection of San Bruno, Huntington and San Mateo Avenue is expected to be in proper working order.

Whether that will mean an easing of traffic on San Bruno Avenue remains uncertain. City Engineer Leo Van Dusen says he still foresees a traffic overload problem, at least until Freeway 380 from Interstate 280 to the Bayshore is completed.

And after that thoroughfare is open, there may be other problems at the three-road intersection — like more traffic accidents, or more severe ones.

This thought lingers in the mind of Police Lt. Hugh Fraser, head of the department's traffic division. Lt. Fraser says that presently the majority of accidents that occur at that intersection are minor in nature.

"How much damage can you do in bumper-to-bumper traffic?" he asks.

Although the majority of accidents may be of a minor nature at that intersection, excluding the recent commuter train pedestrian fatality, which as far as traffic enforcement is concerned probably couldn't have been prevented anyhow, the rate is still extremely high.

Lt. Fraser notes that this intersection is second only to the El Camino Real-San Bruno Avenue intersection as far as his division's priority in applying the department's selective enforcement program, based on the number of accidents in relation to volume of traffic.

Van Dusen calls the intersection "a hell of a deep problem." He said it was worse when the old Tanforan Race Track was in operation many years ago, a statement some commuters may argue with.

"The problem basically has not increased in the last five to seven years," said Van Dusen. "It has reached its maximum (congestion level) and when it does that, people by-pass it."

There are some 36,000 vehicles a day traveling on San Bruno Avenue, about 10,000 a day on San Mateo Avenue and upwards of 12,000 a day on Huntington Avenue now that the Tanforan Shopping center is in operation, according to Van Dusen.

In addition, numerous commuter trains pass by the area daily, keeping vehicle traffic at a standstill with each movement.

"At maximum traffic flow one train can result in all hell breaking loose," said Van Dusen. "It can ruin traffic for a full hour."

Years ago the city knew something had to be done to ease the traffic flow at that intersection, or at least make the trip along San Bruno Avenue more palatable for motorists.

Among the many possible solutions were proposals for signalization and for both an overpass and an underpass.

According to Van Dusen, one major problem with construction of an underpass is the fact there is a high water table in the earth around that intersection. He said calculations showed water would have to be pumped at the rate of a million gallons a day to "de-water" the area enough to keep the water below the depth of the desired underpass.

In addition, said Van Dusen, the water problem would necessitate installation of a large pumping system to operate on a stand-by basis, which could be awfully expensive.

But the main factor in ruling out the underpass idea, he said, was that if the water were drawn out, the result would be a consolidation of the soil and subsequent settling of buildings in the area, leaving the city open to possible liability.

However, pointed out Van Dusen, there still was a need to build concrete walls that had to be 8-feet thick and go 27-feet below the surface so the roadway wouldn't float.

"Then we couldn't be sure that we'd get a good seal," said Van Dusen, who added the proposal was rejected by both the city and as a rapid transit proposal in a study by the engineering firm of Wilsey and Ham.

Aside from being extremely expensive, an overpass would be an inconvenience for a number of residents and businesses in the area, said Van Dusen. He said side streets onto San Bruno Avenue from Green to Fourth Avenue would have to be blocked off permanently to allow for the structure.

Also, if built as proposed, the commercial area west of Huntington Avenue would be blocked off from access onto San Bruno Avenue.

Cost estimate for the structure at that time was about $4 million, which included the possibility of having to buy up property along the route. Van Dusen noted also that this proposal was to build the overpass at the present road width and he said "San Bruno Avenue is too narrow now."

After all the studies for a possible overpass, or underpass, were completed, it was determined that the most reasonable solution remained signalization of the intersection.

This solution had always been a possibility, said Van Dusen, but was shelved temporarily primarily because up until two years ago it was anticipated that a rapid transit system involving the Southern Pacific right-of-way may result in the construction of some sort of an overpass.

Serramonte

Aside from the Latino demands, though, the consensus seemed to be that the crowded buses and the modular scheduling were the sparks that helped ignite the situation.

According to a report by Serramonte Vice Principal Thomas C. Mohr, the school has had "numerous complaints from both students and parents concerning difficulties which have arisen both during loading, and in the course of travel."

The report explained that special problems occurred because of the crowding of the bus. It told how students run, push and elbow their way aboard the vehicle, thereby starting some fights.

Mohr also said that incidents involving bullying, threats and harassment occur commonly, but often go unreported.

Among some of the incidents on the bus recently include fights at the bus stops, a student who jumped on the back of the bus and held on for a block, and one girl whose hair was set on fire.

The decision to drop the modular scheduling met with general approval of the audience.

Serramonte's Kurlak, in supporting the change, cited a list of disadvantages of modular scheduling.

They include an increase in disciplinary problems and vandalism, an inability of students to use the extra time afforded, a "tremendous increase" in requests for transfers to more traditional scheduled schools and an overlapping of some classes.

Kurlak warned that a move to a traditional schedule would "not be a panacea for all our problems, but would be a step in the right direction."

However, Louis Silberman, chairman of the local American Federation of Teachers, announced results of a poll of 62 of 69 Serramonte teachers that showed the majority opposed to traditional scheduling. They voted 39-23 against the "traditional" being instituted during this school year, and 33-29 against the change in 1975-76.

Though there was strong and enthusiastic support for modular scheduling at one time, the board and administration were unanimous in the opinion that it had failed at Serramonte.

And as Board President John Sloane cracked, in referring to the hushed, somber tones in which the apparent death of modular scheduling was being discussed, "This friend died long ago and we are just throwing the dirt on top of him tonight."

JESD

board was opposed to such fund-raising methods.

And after the meeting, Board President Beverly Forrester said the policy dealing with the door-to-door activities would be reviewed and possibly changed.

That policy now states that "fund raising activities, such as candy and magazine sales, are permitted by student groups. Door-to-door sales are permitted only if written permission to do so has been given by a parent or guardian. After dark door-to-door sales are prohibited."

The project at Colma involved the selling of prepaid magazine subscriptions through Q.S.P., Inc., a division of Readers Digest. The fund raising activity would be held in conjunction with the Parents-Teachers Association, and the students would be allowed to sell only to families or friends.

Fifty per cent of the profits would go to the PTA for its projects for the students, including an eighth grade picnic at the end of the year. Funds also would go for student body activities, student government and field trips.

The Fernando Rivera plan was for a school wide candy sale in November, with the proceeds going to the student body.

Hidden Pitfalls in Transit District "A"

All the wording of this legislation points to a hidden plan to bring BART into San Mateo County with the lowest possible vote. The county supervisors, county engineer and pro-BART committee, favor this move. Otherwise . . .

WHY do they ask for an additional ½ cent sales tax now when money is already available for buses?

WHY do they provide for a minimum majority vote for joining BART and for the property taxes therefor?

WHY do they ask for increasing three-fold, the legal bonding capacity of San Mateo County, from 5% to 15% or $355 million?

WHY do they ask for an appointed board when even BART has changed from an appointed to an elected board?

Further the legislation authorizes labor to organize, bargain and to engage in concerted activities, which means strike. This assures bus tie-ups and 40% increase in labor costs.

This is clearly laying the foundation for an election among the voters to saddle San Mateo County with a billion dollars of new debt, when Southern Pacific can be upgraded at a fraction of the cost. Under provisions of California government code No. 26002 Supervisors can provide a transit control agency with a bus system without added taxes for several years.

Government Research Council membership voted almost 2 to 1 against proposition "A".

Free Pines

Charles E. Vincent (right), director of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance for the City of Daly City and August Conci, retired Park Superintendent examine pine trees to be distributed to local residents. For several years the Department of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance have distributed seedlings to residents. However, the survival rate was very low on this size tree. Trees to be distributed at this time have been canned and held for an additional year in the city nursery. Experience has shown this procedure will add to survival rate of the trees. Pines should be planted in October and November to take advantage of the local rainy season. The City will make the trees available through local homeowner organizations. Procedure for the distribution will be announced.

SSF to Consider Regional Park

South San Francisco's City Council will consider a plan for the proposed Shoreline Regional Park when it meets Nov. 6 at W. Orange Avenue Library.

A development firm, accused of bayfilling, will be awaiting the outcome of the meeting.

This park had been on the city's General Plan since 1969. It consists of nothing more than lines on a map, showing that some day, it is hoped that much of the city's bay shoreline would become a bayside park. The watchdog Bay Conservation and Development Commission incorporated the city's General Plan into its Bay Plan.

When Cabot, Cabot & Forbes tried to develop a section of this land, north of Oyster Point Boulevard, for a large terminal for the di Salvo Trucking Co., the BCDC stopped it. CC&F appealed to the city for help. The City Council obliged with a special meeting at which it voted to delete that section of land from the proposed park.

NOW, after several hearings, and protests from environmentalists, a new plan is being proposed with two major improvements.

total amount of land is now slightly more than the lines proposed with two major improvements.

major owner, CC&F, has agreed to donate some of the land, and to make it accessible to the public.

In addition, the old plan now in force apparently shows bay fill. The proposed plan shows no fill.

Meanwhile, CC&F has been cited by the BCDC over grading being done on the proposed trucking firm and a site near Point San Bruno, by the Buzz Haskins Grading Co. Last Thursday, the BCDC held a hearing and voted to issue two cease and desist orders. CC&F was ordered to do no further grading on the land and to remove the fill that had been placed, according to BCDC staff counsel, Ellen Pendleton.

At the trucking terminal site, BCDC staff reported, fill had actually gone into the bay. However, all illegal fill had been removed by CC&F and grading had already ceased.

CC&F representatives, meanwhile, denied that any fill had gone into the bay. They asserted that any fill that had invaded the land under BCDC's jurisdiction — a strip above the high tide mark, 100 feet deep — had been accidental and unintentional.

The other site at issue, at Point San Bruno, was being paved for a parking lot. CC&F asserted, and would serve the proposed shoreline park.

The BCDC told CC&F that if it wished to do further work on the two sites, it must apply for a permit. The permit would be considered at a public hearing tentatively set for Dec. 5. However, the city must first change its general plan, to consider the new park configuration, before BCDC will grant any permits.

On Nov. 21 BCDC plans to hold a luncheon meeting in South San Francisco. It will be followed by a bus tour of the Oyster Park area, in which the proposed park will be inspected.

The city proposes to include within the park all the land 100 feet from the bay, except for a strip of land north of the marina, where it is proposed to be 200 feet deep, for possible expansion of the marina. It is not known if the owner, the Healy-Tibbitts Co., is in agreement with this plan.

A key to development of this park strip would be a series of arrangements by adjacent property owners to make it all accessible to fishermen and other members of the public.

Couple Rescues Son From SSF Blaze

A South San Francisco couple rescued its 25-year-old son from a fire Friday morning by laboriously dragging him through choking clouds of smoke.

The fire, at 231 Forest View Ave., in the Sunshine Gardens section of South San Francisco, was estimated to have done some $3000 worth of damage, to house and contents.

Firemen said the victim, Robert Beame, who weighs more than 200 pounds, had been sleeping in a sofa-bed in the living room. At about 1:15 a.m., the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Beame, who are both considerably smaller than their son, according to firemen, were awakened by the smoke. They dashed into the living room, and were driven off by the smoke. They forced themselves into the living room again, found their son unconscious and dragged him into the street.

Hearing on JCPenney Building Plans

The South San Francisco City Council will hold a public hearing Nov. 6 on a request by the J. C. Penney Co. to open a discount department store in the old White Front building, on El Camino Real at Spruce Avenue.

The City Council acted last Wednesday night after receiving a recommendation from the Planning Commission for approval of plans to remodel the store building, most of which has been empty two years. A grocery store and drug store have continued in operation in part of the building.

The new store will be called "The Treasury."

TWO OTHER public hearings were set for Nov. 20:

— A new ordinance setting standards for driveways for off-street parking.

— To delete from the City Zoning ordinance a provision that no more than 40 per cent of the lot area be covered by a home. Numerous variances have been applied for because of this provision. Planning staff members feel that the setback provisions take care of the problem, already.

The council approved a resolution supporting the current rapid transit ballot measure, creating a rapid transit district under the county.

City Atty. John Noonan reported passage of a new act allowing a city to pay a library board as much as $50 a month. Councilmen asked him to prepare an ordinance allowing the city to pay library commissioners $25 a month, the same as the other city commissioners.

In other business, the council:

— Approved on second reading an increase of the hotel-motel tax from five to six per cent. The city will receive an estimated $50,000 a year extra. Nothing was said Wednesday about what the money will be used for.

— Cost of remodeling two Grand Avenue buildings for the Parks and Recreation Department went up by $3,920. One building will become a senior citizen center. Councilmen grudgingly approved change orders for new plumbing, three fans, emergency lighting units, and removal of show window platform. Staff members were reprimanded by staff members, who promised to negotiate with the two landlords to pay some of the cost.

— Bids were called for new non-skid tiling for the locker rooms of the Orange Memorial Park Pool, to replace deteriorating floors.

Candidates Debate Issues in Television Forum

They would fight inflation, tighten government spending, promote political reform, make our schools better learning institutions, and represent the voters better.

In short . . . California would be a much better place in which to live if they were elected.

Peninsula candidates for the California legislature on the Nov. 5 ballot gathered before television cameras and an audience of 100 persons in the College of San Mateo Little Theater Tuesday.

The theme of the Candidates' Night program — aired by CSM-TV Channel 14 — was entitled "And If I Am Elected . . ."

The candidates — allotted only five minutes by moderators from the League of Women Voters — gave the following replies:

• JAMES STACK, American Independent Party candidate for the 19th Assembly District, said, "If I am elected I will make three things certain." Stack said the prison system doesn't work, noting there have been 66 recent inmate stabbings at San Quentin Prison. Public school systlsmes don't work either, according to Stack, who said students are graduating "who cannot read or write." Thirdly, he said the present welfare system needs to be revised to eliminate fourth generation welfare recipients.

• LOUIS J. PAPAN, Democratic incumbent assemblyman from the 19th district, said as a first term legislator he addressed himself to property tax relief, political reform and rapid transit. He noted he is chairman of an assembly subcommittee presently studying Southern Pacific Railroad's request for an 111 per cent increase on its Peninsula commuter service. "I have completed my apprenticeship in the legislature and look forward to going back to a second term," Papan said.

• GILBERT RODLI, JR., Republican candidate for the 19th District Assembly seat, said, "If I am elected to the state assembly I will provide effective representation of the people of northern San Mateo County." He cited his 15 years experience as a government relations consultant and noted he is aware of school problems in his position as vice president of the Burlingame Elementary School District board. Rodli said his first emphasis, if elected, would be to "work on inflation."

• RAYMOND HEAPS,

(AIP) candidate for the 6th Senate District, said if elected he would prove that members of the American Independent Party "are not a bunch of kooks." Heaps said he would "cut legislator's salaries." He also claimed "bureaucracy is ruining us" and noted the legislature "is creating problems, not solving them." A sure cure for water pollution, Heaps said, would be to require cities and industrial plants to have their water intakes located in the same areas as their sewage outlets.

• MAX WOODS, Republican candidate for the 6th Senate District, said, "Any politician can get up here and build himself up and tear his opponent down." Woods then sat down and said he would address himself to questions from the audience later.

• JAMES TORMEY, Republican candidate for the 10th Senate District, addressed himself to the question of whether "school finance is in trouble?" Tormey said, "I am not so sure it is school finance that is in trouble or if it is school administrators who are in trouble." A member of the San Mateo Community College District board, Tormey noted the district is one of the few in California in which the district tax rate is lower than limit set by the state.

• JOSEPH COONEY, (AIP) candidate for the 10th Senate District, said, "I don't care whether you vote for me or not. My duty is not to be elected to Sacramento, my job is to tell the people what is perpetuated and planned behind their backs." If elected, Cooney claimed he would cut his legislative salary by one quarter and work to uphold the bill of rights.

• ARLEN GREGORIO, Democratic incumbent senator from the 10th district, said, "The election system isn't working properly."

Gregorio suggested that contributions to political campaigns be limited to no more than "one hundred dollars from any group or individual." He added, "We have to counter the effect of big money on government." Gregorio said he has worked to "open up the process of government" by striving to eliminate secret legislative meetings in Sacramento.

• DIXON ARNETT, Republican incumbent assemblyman from the 20th District, cited several failures of the California legislature which included no action on a proposal for "no fault insurance and a farm labor law." Arnett said future problems which the California legislature must deal with include school finance, prison reform and the development of local mental health programs.

• SIDNEY BERLIN, Democratic candidate for the 20th Assembly District, said he supports a partial public funding of candidates' campaigns. "It is ridiculous for us to continue with this method of campaign finance," Berlin said, referring to contributions from lobbyists and associations to candidates. "I can't believe that someone gives a candidate $1,000 for the good of the state," he said. Berlin also said that "higher education should be tuition free for California residents."

After the five minute statements from each candidate were concluded, members of the audience were allowed to ask the candidates questions.

Asked their positions on school busing to achieve racial integration, Arnett, Tormey, and Cooney said they were opposed to forced busing. Berlin favored busing as a means to "desegregate schools." Gregorio said the best way to promote integrated schools is to have integrated housing.

Five Seek South City School Board Post

All five candidates vying for a single vacancy on the South San Francisco Unified School District Board agree on at least two criticisms of the current administration.

• The schools are not providing adequate vocational training.

• Children are being promoted when they have not received passing grades.

Certain disagreements were noted on other issues, particularly policy on treatment of teachers. However, several of the candidates found themselves continually agreeing with their fellow candidates, at Thursday night's candidates night, held at Westborough Junior High School.

William M. Moffatt, in particular, stressed the need for vocational training so students could find work immediately upon graduation from high school. He suggested extending schools into the afternoon and summer, if necessary. He urged training for "real jobs" that are in demand in this area.

Valerie Lambertson said that an organization she headed, American Association of University Women, had looked into the matter 10 years ago and recommended stepping up the career education program.

"The district is still dragging its feet," she charged.

Jean Altizio noted that the district has a committee currently working on the matter, the Secondary Education Committee.

All candidates agreed that children should be held back until they mastered the work required.

"You're not doing the children any favors when teachers move students up a grade they are not prepared," Mrs. Lambertson declared. She noted that the University of California, which admits only B students, had to have "bonehead English" for almost half of its entering class.

Sharpest disagreement seemed to be the matter of teachers' strikes.

Mrs. Lambertson called any breakdown of salary negotiations "unfortunate" and expressed hope that a form of binding arbitration could be adopted.

"I would never support a strike because it would be a strike against the children," declared Margo Blank, another candidate.

Moffatt promised that in the event of a strike "I would see to it that each teacher would be sued for breach of contract."

Moffatt also advocated removing all "poor" teachers from the classroom.

"If the teacher cannot be gotten rid of, because of tenure then he or she should at least be assigned to some job where he or she would not be teaching children," Moffatt said. He also urged that "outstanding" teachers be hired, even if bonuses were needed — "just like with big league teams." Mrs. Lambertson urged that teachers be consulted more regarding school district policy and the budget-making process.

"Many teachers come forth with ideas that don't even cost money," she said.

"We have very creative teachers."

She also rapped the hiring of a $21,000 curriculum consultant when teachers had urged that the position not be filled. The money, she urged, should go for teachers.

Marie Hickman urged that the board and the teachers should work together. Children's homework should be checked and teachers should be unexpectedly visited, as a check.

Mrs. Altizio said that teachers can also take part in various advisory committees, in order to put forth their ideas.

Mrs. Blank said she would be glad to accept recommendations from teachers "if they don't cost a fortune." She suggested changing the tenure laws in order to get rid of poor teachers.

The Candidates Night was preceded by a debate between Pat Cannon, curriculum specialist, and Bob Gehl, Foxridge teacher, on Proposition M, to increase the tax-limit. While Cannon cited the need for funds to continue present programs as well as to pay fair salaries, Gehl cited economies the district could make in non-teaching personnel.

Gehl urged that administrators be put back into the classroom. Money has no direct relation to educational quality, he added, citing San Francisco.

Cannon declared that, as an administrator, his work, for one, has proven highly useful to many teachers who needed curriculum materials.

Voter Apathy: 'The Worst'

It hasn't been a very exciting election campaign in the 11th Congressional District, but not just because Republican political novice Brainard G. (Bee) Merdinger of South San Francisco isn't rated to have much chance against incumbent Democrat Leo J. Ryan, one of the Peninsula's best-known politicians.

Both say their major problem in this campaign has been to overcome voter apathy. "It's the worst in all my years in politics," Ryan lamented. Watergate, inflation and a despairing attitude about politics in general is responsible, he said.

"Professional politicians now are on the outs with the people," the 52-year-old Merdinger commented. "What we need are more citizen politicians who are more interested in doing something for the people."

Ryan, 50, who went to Washington two years ago after 10 years in the state Assembly from north San Mateo County, justified a $10,000 campaign budget this year by saying "Part of my responsibility is to present my candidacy to the voters." Most of the money will go for mailings and brochures and Ryan has been hitting the sidewalks and ringing doorbells.

"That's the biggest campaign sign I have," he said, pointing to an 18-by-24-inch poster on his desk.

Merdinger said he has spent $1,500 on his campaign so far, half out of his own pocket and doesn't figure on it costing more than $200 more by Nov. 5.

He cited a GOP Central Committee voter poll showing Ryan with 50 per cent of the vote, him with ten per cent and the other 40 per cent as yet uncommitted. "If I can get people to tell other people about me I feel I have a fighting chance," Merdinger said.

Merdinger's wife Lydia, a Democrat, and mother of their six children, ran unsuccessfully against Ryan in the primary election but shared a common platform with her husband on an issue commonly known as "pro-life" or "anti-abortion."

The campaign, as a result, has had little direct argument over specific points of contention. Ryan points to his record with the House Foreign Affairs and Government Operations committees and Merdinger plugs for pro-life, morality in government and fewer terms of office for politicians.

Merdinger claims he's as qualified for the office as Ryan because, as executive secretary of the Young Men's Institute, a Catholic organization in San Francisco, "I work with 5,000 of my brothers and it's about the same as Congress on a mini-scale."

Ryan said he thought his top accomplishment of the past two years has been "to start from scratch and teach myself matters of federal policy, much of it extremely intricate. I think I can function as a journeyman on my committees now. In Foreign Affairs I understand something about the Common Market, Southeast Asia, Latin America and others."

About his main issue, Merdinger said he is working for a constitutional amendment to give unborn babies some legal status. "This won't rule out abortions," he said, but would prevent a woman "from using abortion leading to abuses and waste of public money."

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that abortion is up to the woman and her physician, but Merdinger said he would like to see an "abortion court" make decisions about aborting. Letting the Supreme Court ruling go unchallenged now "will encourage euthanasia — mercy killing — because of the non-person status of the fetus. They're letting Mongoloids die in hospitals now."

With abortion permissible nobody's going to say much about who else dies," he said.

Lost Daly City Boy Returned to Mother

A 16-month-old Daly City boy, who wandered away from his mother while she shopped in downtown San Francisco, was safe at home Wednesday after an intense police search for the missing tot.

Little Derick Benson disappeared last Tuesday afternoon while his mother, Shelia Davis, was trying on clothes in a store on Market Street.

San Francisco police began searching the downtown area without success until 2 a.m. when a resident of the Lankershim Hotel on Fifth Street called headquarters and said the boy was at the hotel.

Police said they found the boy with Janice Alexander who said she discovered Derick wandering at Fifth and Market Streets.

The woman told police she took the boy to her hotel room, fed him and let him take a nap.

Criminal Court Rarity: A Happy Occasion

One of the few "happy" occasions in criminal court occurs sporadically when a person reappears before a judge because he has successfully completed his probation.

James Victor Keola, 71, of Pacifica, experienced such an occasion Thursday before San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan in Redwood City.

The retired longshoreman had his record expunged, and was complimented by Judge Ragan for "leading a good life since the incident."

The "incident" involved a vehicular manslaughter Oct. 3, 1970, when the car Keola was driving crashed into a cement barrier in Pacifica. A baby girl passenger died from injuries sustained in the crash.

Keola also had been charged with drunken driving.

The elderly man's probation officer, H. W. DaCunha, told Judge Ragan that Keola has "stayed out of trouble" during his three years on probation, "and has not been drinking."

The one-time defendant, standing at a podium facing Judge Ragan, smiled — one of the few times smiles are seen in criminal court.

What's New?

What are they reading these days? Requests from sixth graders indicate that the children want "Bonnie and Clyde," "M-A-S-H," "Exorcist," "Deliverance," "Rosemary's Baby," "Godfather," "Billy Jack," "Born Losers," "Papillon," and "Conrack."

Wow! And what do the sixth graders think of such books? "Right on," "far out," and "great."

Is there any wonder that school teachers are screaming with Screen Kane of Excelsior, Minnesota, "Does anyone have a simply super booklist to share that will satisfy young people?"

We are not aware of a super booklist, but we offer some items from a column called "Elderly Books for Younger Readers" that appears in "Wilson's Library Bulletin."

The columnist, Gary Bogart, suggests "Breakheart Pass" by Alistair MacLean. Here's a suspense thriller that is set in the Old West. Its story involves espionage and murder aboard a supply train carrying medicine to combat a cholera epidemic at an army fort. Bogart writes, "There are no abortions here, no acid heads, no sex nuts, but plenty of suspense and adventure."

Also for young adults, Mr. Bogart likes, "The War Between the Tates," by Alison Lurie. This is a story of a troubled marriage that pictures a family at war. "YA's should react strongly to it, even if only to question the savagely funny portrayal of teenagers as boorish egomaniacs." The book's author said of it "not even a mother could love these kids."

ALTHOUGH A NOVEL entitled "Jack the Bear" by Dan McCall is already stirring up controversy, Mr. Bogart includes it in his suggestions because "It is plainly an honest look at adolescence as experienced in the 1970's." For example "how does a child of the 70's cope with a hip father who gets stoned on pot?" The author offers no easy solutions for growing up. "In fact the novel ends on a down note with Jack's only consolation being that one day he will grow out of that awful period of life."

While Mr. Bogart realizes that books such as these are a far-cry from Pollyanna and Nancy Drew, he suggests them for children who are being raised around a television set that offers "Mission Impossible," "Columbo," "Marcus Welby" and "Kojak" they may see movies such as "The Sex Symbol" and "Music To Die By."

Mr. Bogart's reviews of books for younger readers reveal a philosophy accepted by many teachers and librarians. It holds that today's youth have had their minds focused "on the suffering and courage of simple people." They know about "the savagery running beneath the surface of humanity," and they are living with divorce, violence, manhunts and hate.

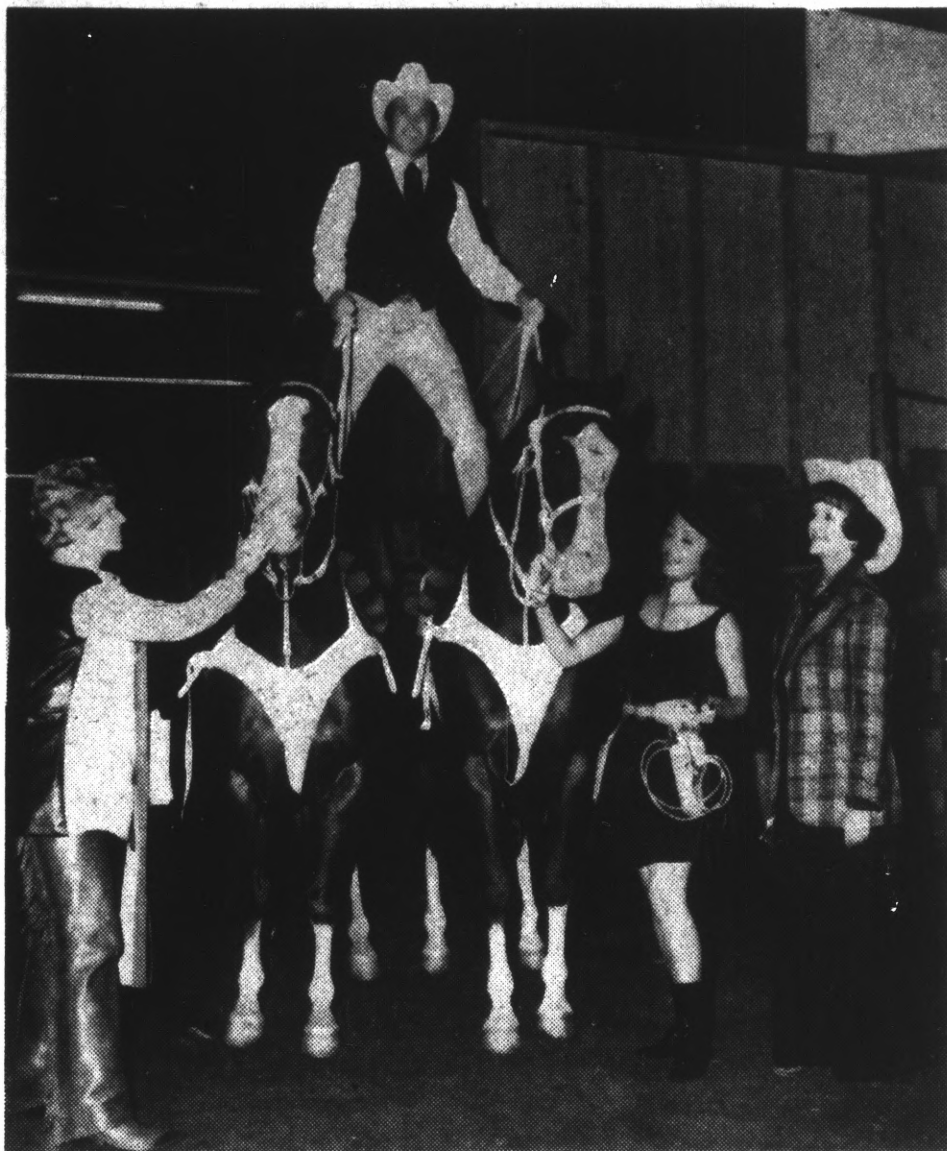

Among the novels he suggests in his column are Brian Garfield's "The Threepersons Hunt," "A Crown of Feathers and Other Stories" by Isaac Singer, "The Classic Mystery and Suspense Plays of the Modern Theater," "Pasmore" by David Storey and John Burke's "The Legend of Baby Doe."

Among the most controversial books on Bogart's list is "The Little Girl Who Lives Down The Lane" by Laird Koenig.

Evil pervades this tale of a 13-year-old woman-child of the bad seed ilk. Furthermore, the reader is seduced into feeling sympathy for the girl as she commits her necessary crimes.

Bogart realizes that there'll be objections to the language and the girl's sexual precocity, but, he writes "For all that the novel is fun and harmless. Relax and enjoy it." What is true of this story he finds true of the others. "Damn it, I liked it and I think most high school students will too," seems to be his criterion.

For kids that want "Bonnie and Clyde," and "Exorcist," well, who says they can't handle such books and damn it such books are better for them than the "Godfather."

NATIONAL PREVIEW

Scouts Camporee

Daly City's Scout Troop 369 joined with other units of the San Francisco Council's Serra District in their semi-annual Camporee held at San Mateo County's Huddard Park recently.

Three of the Troop's Patrols enjoyed the weekend of fun and competition.

Participating were: Brian Watson, Mike Boasso, Bill Guzman and Steve Putman of the Flying Eagle Patrol; Maxie Santiago, Jim Schumacher, Mike Franzosa, Pat Connolly, Sean Connolly and Chris Kanelopoulos of the Apache Patrol; Trippy Sliiter, Mike Hyde, Edwin Bulos, Dave Richwood and Tim Leavitt of the Viking Patrol; Leadership Corps members F. J. Pratt and Tony Fretty.

Members of Troop Headquarters aiding in running the events were: Senior Patrol Leader Mike Dittmore, Assistant Scoutmasters Ray Boasso and Craig Markinson and Scoutmaster Fred Pratt.

Sacred Heart Alumni Event

The Sacred Heart High School Alumni Association will hold their first event of the new school year, Nov. 15. This will be the Annual Alumni Beer Bust — contemplated as a victory celebration, for the traditional Sacred Heart-St. Ignatius football game will have been played that afternoon. All alumni and friends of Sacred Heart High School (over 21 years of age) are invited to attend. The festivities will be held in the school cafeteria from 8 p.m. to midnight.

San Bruno Outpatient Clinic Opens Nov. 1

November 1 is opening day for the Mary's Help Hospital San Bruno Outpatient Clinic.

Located at 560 El Camino Real (ground floor, San Bruno United Methodist Church), the Outpatient Clinic is designed to serve the "working poor" — persons who do not qualify for state financed aid, but still cannot afford private medical care.

The San Bruno Clinic will be open each Friday from noon to 8:30 p.m. for the convenience of residents of San Bruno and surrounding areas.

Like other clinics sponsored by Mary's Help Hospital, the San Bruno Clinic will offer general family practice medical care for adults and children on a free or reduced fee basis. Eligibility for the clinic program is based on a sliding scale of net income, depending upon the number of members in one's family.

Clinic members may visit any of the four Mary's Help Hospital outpatient clinics and are charged according to their ability to pay. The cost of a single clinic visit may range from no charge to $4.50; laboratory tests, x-rays and pharmacy supplies are also discounted.

The San Bruno Clinic will be staffed by a bilingual mobile medical team including James Shaner, M.D., clinic physician; Diane Navarro, clinic nurse; Lenor Arevalo, eligibility interviewer; and Leonor Bertelsen, receptionist. This same team works in the Mary's Help Hospital South San Francisco Clinic on Mondays and Wednesdays and in the Pacifica Clinic on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Specialty clinics, a dental clinic and ancillary services are available for clinic members at the hospital based clinic, located on the tenth floor of Mary's Help Hospital. Over 90 members of the Medical-Dental Staff donate their time to treat clinic patients in the specialties of medicine, pediatrics, gynecology, orthopedics and surgery.

For details on the San Bruno Clinic or on the Mary's Help Hospital Outpatient Clinic program, phone 992-4000, extension 434.

BOUTIQUE

Mary's Help Hospital Guild members prepare for the Guild's annual Christmas Boutique to be held Nov. 14 in the hospital solarium. There will be a champagne opening from 7 to 9 p.m. The boutique will continue daily for two weeks. Guild members addressing invitations to the Christmas Boutique are (from left) standing, Mrs. Paul Hupf, Mrs. Norman Cyr and Mrs. C. J. Dunow, and seated, Mrs. E. R. Short, Mrs. Henry Przyborowski and Mrs. Thomas Stanghellini. Proceeds from the event will benefit the hospital's expansion fund.

Railroad Is Dinner Theme

The Ocean Shore Railroad, an ill-fated venture that hasn't run a train since 1921 will be the theme of a dinner Nov. 10 at 6 p.m. at Vallejo Station, Pacifica.

Former employees, relatives, friends, railroad buffs and others interested are invited to attend and bring any Ocean Shore photos and memorabilia they might have. Prizes will be given for the best photos and other historical artifacts from the Ocean Shore period.

The Ocean Shore Railroad, long a subject of debate and curiosity along the San Mateo Coast, gained renewed prominence last month with the publication of "The Last Whistle," a new book by Jack R. Wagner on the history of the railroad. Mr. Wagner will be present to autograph books and to meet the guests.

Vallejo Station, a restaurant built in one of the few remaining Ocean Shore R.R. stations, is offering for the evening a prime rib dinner at $5. Vallejo Station is located at 2125 Cabrillo Highway (Route No. 1), Pacifica. For reservations call 355-2403.

BOOK REVIEW

James Wyatt (center), dean of students at Skyline College, will review Alfred Coppel's "34 East" for The Friends of the Daly City Library at 8 p.m., Nov. 7, in the Coral Room of the Westlake Branch Library, 275 Southgate Ave. Past presidents of The Friends, Mrs. F. Lincoln Walter (left), director, and Mrs. Emmett B. Tierney (right), parliamentarian and publicity chairwoman, discuss with Wyatt the suspenseful novel which draws its title from the meridian of longitude which splits the stretch of desert called the Sinai Peninsula. The public is invited to the review, which has been arranged as a community service by Mrs. H. C. Kincaid, the Friends' book review chairwoman.

Rabbi to Share Pulpit With Council Director

Rabbi Ira Book, of Congregation B'nai Israel, has invited Earl Raab, director of the Jewish Community Relations Council to share his Sabbath Evening pulpit on Friday, Raab is a columnist of the Jewish Community Bulletin and a leader of prominence in the Jewish Community and will speak on "Are the Jews an Ethnic Group?"

The Sabbath worship portion of the evening will be led by Rabbi Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz who will chant the liturgy. The service will begin at 8:30 p.m. and will be followed by an Oneg Shabbat.

Sabbath services will continue on Saturday at 10 a.m. and will also be conducted by Rabbi Book and Cantor Graudenz. The service will be followed by a luncheon with the Rabbi, presented by the Cholutzim Chapter of USY.

Congregation B'nai Israel will hold the first rehearsal of a choir today, at the Synagogue beginning at 7 p.m. The choir will be under the direction of Richard Altman, prominent organist and musician in the Bay Area.

The choir is open to men, women and children, regardless of age. For details call the synagogue office, 756-5430.

The Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel will hold a Book Sale on the Synagogue grounds on Sunday. Anyone wishing to donate books may contact the chairperson, Mrs. Milton Potak, 992-4186 for pick-up. Further information may also be had from Mrs. Potak.

A regular meeting of the Men's Club of Congregation will be held Nov. 5, at Congregation B'nai Israel. The meeting will be presided over by President Julius Michaelis and will feature the presentation of a slate of officers for the coming year.

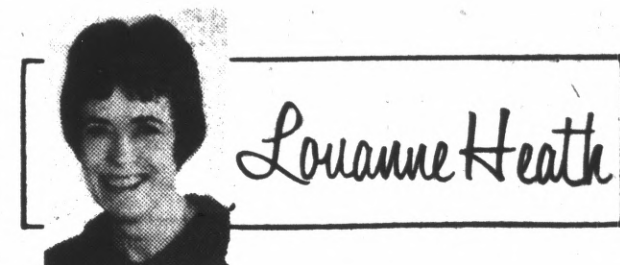

Highlight of the evening will be a spaghetti dinner under the direction of Milton Potak, and Al Polonsky, Daly City attorney, will be the speaker of the evening.

Catholic Daughters Courts To Offer Memorial Masses

Memorial masses will be offered by members of 141 Courts of the Catholic Daughters of America throughout the State of California Nov. 3 for their deceased members.

On this first Sunday of November annually over 14,000 members in California gather in prayer during the Eucharistic Liturgy.

The four courts in San Francisco and one in Daly City have grouped together and will attend Mass together at St. Gabriel's Church, 2535-40th Avenue, San Francisco, which comprise the Hostess Court, Our Lady of the Sunset No. 2070, Regent-Mrs. Antonio Orbeta; Court Golden Gate No. 913, Regent-Mrs. H. Reimer; Court Salesian No. 1005-Mary

Louanne Heath

The Friends of the Library committee "for the design and construction of bookshelves" will meet today at 10 a.m. for the second of two workshops planned to up production of bookshelves in time to supply the increased demand during the holidays.

Mrs. Virginia Tierney, publicity chairwoman and a talented designer, has created two new bookshelves which will be able to double as Christmas tree ornaments. Members of the committee will gather in the Westlake Library on Southgate Avenue and cut, paste and decorate angels and wise men as well as the standard bookshelves regularly sold by the Friends of the Library.

Working with Mrs. Tierney in the workshops are Mrs. Alice Barichievich, Mrs. Margaret Connolly, Mrs. Eina Bik, Mrs. Olga and Ellyn Canada, Mrs. Hilda Dennis, Mrs. Mary Geandrot, Mrs. Marie Meyer, Mrs. Pauline Reif and Mrs. Frances Windhurst.

On Thursday, one week from tomorrow James Wyatt, dean of students at Skyline College, will review "34 East" by Alfred Coppel at the 8 p.m. book review being sponsored by The Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Margaret Kincaid, review chairwoman, indicated that the meeting will be held in the Coral Room of the Westlake library during the evening hours to accommodate the members who work during the day time hours and are forced to miss many of the fine speakers and reviews sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Friends of the Library. Guests are always welcome to the reviews and the hospitality hour which accompanies reviews, according to Mrs. Kincaid.

IT IS CHRISTMAS card shopping time and Mrs. Jerry Stringer, publicity chairwoman of Mary's Help Hospital Guild, wishes to remind everyone that a wide selection of cards are available through the guild. Proceeds from the sale of the cards is used by the guild for projects to hospital patients, tray favors, magazines, or the like, or is used to pay off the guild's pledge to the hospital.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the work done by the volunteers may do so by shopping for Christmas cards on the second floor of Mary's Help Hospital and/or by attending the Christmas boutique which will be held for two weeks, beginning on November 14, in the hospital solarium.

New guild members who will be working on their first boutique include Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. Dorothy Balafer, Mrs. Charles A. Case, Mrs. Gary Colborn, Mrs. Oreste Del Grande, Mrs. Jack Gustafson, Mrs. Howard Hutchins, Mrs. Mary C. Hansen, Mrs. Lester Paterson, Mrs. Helen Scholl and Mrs. Edith Sundheimer.

MEMBERS OF the Fifty Plus Club nominating committee were chosen at a recent club meeting. Mrs. Nina Regan is chairing the group and serving with her are Mrs. Anna Marie Bubord, Walter Green, Ila Siebert and Victoria Plate. The committee nominees will be presented at the December meeting along with persons nominated from the floor. Installation of new officers will be held during the day meeting in January.

THIS PAST Wednesday was an exciting day for adult leaders in the San Francisco Bay Council who attended the Program Helps for Brownie and Junior Leaders which was held at Temple Methodist church in San Francisco.

According to Mrs. James Morino, publicity chairwoman for the Daly City segment of the Girl Scout movement, if a troop leader could only attend one sessioning should have been the one!

Leaders learned how to do such things as make looms out of Girls Scout cookie cartons, how to make humming bird feeders from old plastic bottles and, most importantly, they were given hints on how to communicate with kids!

MEMBERS OF the Holy Angels Latin Club are preparing for the group's first overnight jaunt to Reno and Sparks.

President Nemar Gonzalez has set Friday, Nov. 1 as the deadline for reservations for the Nov. 16 and 17 fun-filled junket to our sister state to the east.

Tickets are $23.50 per person, double occupancy or $24.50 per person in twin accommodations. Single occupancy will be $32. Guests will receive $6 in benefits and cash in Reno and $7 in cash and benefits in Sparks.

According to Mrs. Gonzalez the fun will begin as soon as club members and their friends board the chartered buses in front of the Holy Angels Parish hall. Entertainment, games and refreshments will add gaiety to the cross state drive.

One word of caution! Tour members are asked to refrain from parking in the church parking lot while they are out of town. The parking area must be kept free for worshippers on Sunday morning!

Reservations for the tour are available now to anyone calling the Gonzalez home, 992-3591.

THE HOLY ANGELS Parish social is on tap for Nov. 9 and the chairwoman, Mrs. George Sigile and Mrs. Henry Norman want to remind everyone that now is the time to make reservations.

The gathering is planned for Saturday evening at the South San Francisco Elk's Club with cocktails, no-host variety, to be served at 6:30 p.m. A roast beef dinner will be served at 8 p.m. and dancing to the music of the Keynotes will begin at 9 p.m. and continue to 1 a.m.

Tickets are being sold for $9.50 per person, $19 per couple.

Deadline Set On Tax Claim

San Mateo County homeowners still have an opportunity to reduce their tax bills by filing a late claim for the $1750 homeowners' exemption, Assistant Assessor Lloyd Reise reminded today.

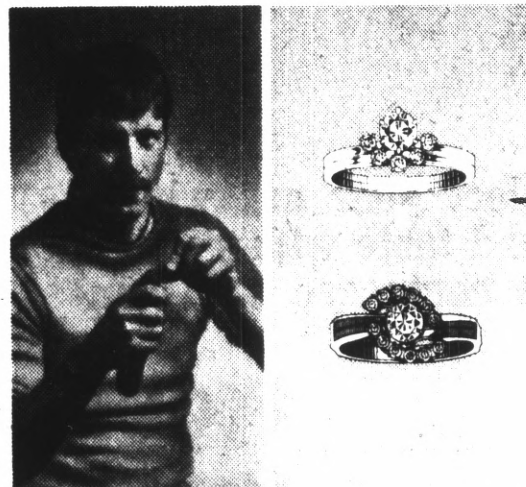

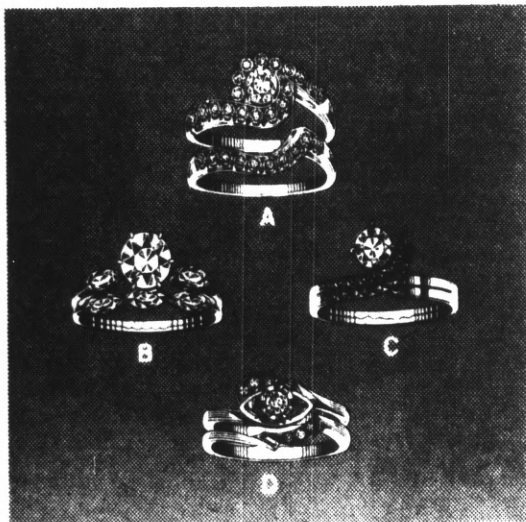

If one failed to file for the exemption by the original April 15 deadline, one has till Dec. 1 to file a late claim for 80 per cent of the exemption under new State law which went into effect last year for the first time, Reise pointed out.

Reise said some 200 homeowners filed valid late claims in 1973, and encouraged those who missed out this year to do so.

Homeowners include those owning single-family residences, condominiums, duplexes, co-op apartments, or mobile homes on their own land in which they personally reside, Reise said.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks. All around my neighborhood, and yours too I imagine, windows are full of frightening and fearsome pictures. Goblins, ghosts, witches and black cats threaten the passersby.

A bowl filled with goodies by the door will appease the tigers, princesses, pirates and ghosts who come demanding trick or treat, but how about something for the stay-at-homes who pass out the treats? A cup of coffee and some of these cookies would be just the right treat for them.

Halloween is the time for these golden cookies with their orange frosting. The golden color in the cookies comes from the baby food carrots that are blended in the batter.

GOLDEN NUT DROPS

2 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
5 1/2-ounces strained carrots
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup walnuts, chopped

Sift together the two cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and fourth teaspoon salt.

Blend the three-fourths cup shortening, one half cup sugar and one-fourth cup brown sugar and cream well. Beat in the egg. Stir in the sifted dry ingredients — alternately with the five and one-half ounces strained carrots and one teaspoon vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Add the cup chopped nuts and drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Frost while warm. This recipe is most generous. It makes 5 dozen cookies.

ORANGE ICING

1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice

Combine the one cup sugar (be sure to sift it, so the icing won't be lumpy) with the two teaspoons orange rind and two tablespoons orange juice. Mix until smooth.

If you'd like a little extra color, you might want to frost half the cookies with this rich fudge frosting. If so, make up half a recipe of the Orange Icing and frost half the cookies while they are warm. Cool the remaining cookies and make half this fudge frosting for them.

FUDGE FROSTING

2 squares chocolate
4 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine the two squares chocolate, four tablespoons milk and one tablespoon butter in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until chocolate melts, blend until smooth. Remove from heat; add the one cup powdered sugar and beat until smooth and glossy. If too thin, add a bit more powdered sugar until desired consistency.

'Logo' Contest for Parenthood Announced

Deadline is tomorrow for entries for the "logo" contest for a new symbol for Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo County, according to Patrick J. Sheeran, Executive Director.

The "logo" is to be used on all materials and stationery utilized by the family planning agency, and it should in some manner depict the goals and purposes of the agency.

Judges for the contest are John M. Ward, San Mateo County Supervisor-elect; Alec Stern, prominent San Mateo Artist, and Mrs. David Boyle, chairperson, Policy and Expansion Committee, Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo County.

Entry is open to all residents of San Mateo County. Entries should be no larger than five inches by seven inches, in black and white, capable, however, of reproduction in color if necessary, and capable also, of reduction in size without loss of detail. The name and address and telephone number of the entrant should be clearly printed on back of entries. Members of the staff, Board of Directors of Planned Parenthood and their families cannot enter.

The first prize of $50 will be awarded, together with two second prizes of $25 each. All entries become the sole property of Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo County, and cannot be returned.

Final decision as to adoption and use of any logo will rest with the Board of Directors.

Entries should be submitted to Director of Development, Planned Parenthood Association, 2211 Palm Avenue, San Mateo, CA 94403. Phone number is 574-2622.

Vows Made to Love, Honor and Cherish

Santamaria-Leon

Mexico City and Puerto Vallarta were on the honeymoon itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Renaldo Leon (Sharon Santamaria), who are making their first home in San Mateo.

Holy Angels Church in Colma was the setting for the couple's nuptials. The Rev. Cornelius P. O'Reilly officiated. A reception followed at the Machinist's Hall in Burlingame.

Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Santamaria of Daly City. She is a graduate of Jefferson High School.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Leon of Pinole. He is an alumnus of Harry Ells High School in Richmond and Contra Costa Jr. College.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor length long sleeved ivory lace gown with seed pearl detailing. Orange crepe floor length gowns were chosen by her attendants.

Carmen Polizzi served as the maid of honor, and secondary attendants were Karen Hodson and Marilyn Murphy.

Best man duties were performed by Larry DeBroeck. Ushers included David Tweedie and Gene Murphy.

The new Mrs. Leon has one brother, Nick Santamaria Jr. Her husband is the brother of Cynthia, Yvonne, Gary and Isaac Leon Jr.

(Sharon Santamaria)

Dunn-Shugarte

At home in San Bruno after a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Shugarte (Mary Ann Dunn) who exchanged vows at All Souls Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. Dunn of South San Francisco. She is a graduate of South San Francisco High School.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Agnes Shugarte of McDonald, Ohio, who attended the wedding. John F. Kennedy High School in Ohio is his alma mater.

For her wedding, Mary Ann wore a gown and veil of her own creation. The white flocked organza costume and matching veil were detailed with daisy trim.

A lavender flocked organza dress was chosen by the maid of honor, Patricia Renn. Similar dresses in yellow were selected by bridesmaids Linda Goodwin, Lynn Guidotti, Frances Psaila, and Kathy Dunn, sister of the bride.

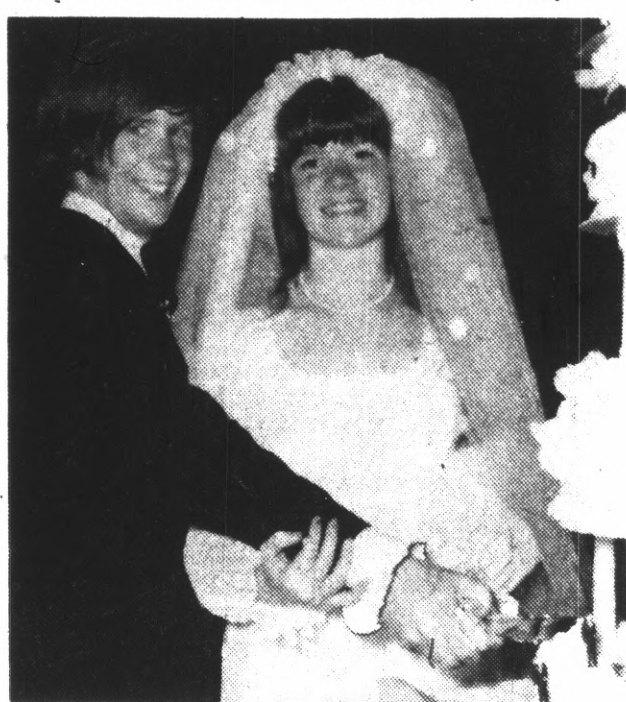

Brian Byers of McDonald, Ohio, stood with James as best man. Robert Brentin, his brother-in-law, seated guests with Al Dunn, brother of the bride.

The newlyweds greeted guests after the rites at a reception at the Women's Club in South San Francisco. Guests included the bridegroom's great aunt, Ella Daniels of Pennsylvania, and his sister, Louise Brentin of Michigan.

The bride is also the sister of Jim, Patrick, Mike, John, Christine, and Lizzie Dunn. Her husband has one other sister, Marilyn Grady.

Local Photographers Exhibit at Tanforan

Illustrating how a mechanical device in the hands of men with a sensitive camera eye captures a range of expression from humor to pathos, a black and white photography exhibit opened at Peoples Gallery, on the Mall at Tanforan Park Shopping Center, Oct. 23.

The leading lensmen in the show entitled "5 Men with Cameras", are Hal Adams, Dale Healy, Leonard Nadel, Larry Schiller and Bob Smith.

Peoples Gallery selected these five nationally known camera artists and in turn each man selected four of what he considers among his best works.

The exhibit, presented in giant-sized poster sizes, is accomplished by the photographer's own story of why he responded to his particular composition. Each picture is a unique expression of how one man sees the world around him captured in the medium of film.

Adams, for example, shows one of his works entitled "The Family". His comment was, "An effort to show today's young family, intertwined, but still each maintaining his own identity."

Healy shows such subjects as "Sailboat", "Nun and Minibike", "Elongated Girl's Head", and a sensitive piece called "Lovers" which portrays the basic beauty of two lovers.

Described by admirers of his works as intense, Nadel often catches the dilemma of humanity at an unsuspecting moment. One photo, for example, pictures a child peering through a broken window screen. He described his approach, "The appeal of a child seemingly imprisoned behind an alleyway window screen carries a great deal more impact through its suggestion of sledge hammer approach."

Schiller has directed and edited the "New York" sequence of the motion picture, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid", and has won numerous prizes.

Peoples Gallery is a new concept where in works of famous artists and unusual graphics are brought "to" the people in shopping center malls displayed on a specially designed 3-sided "Triosk".

Serramonte Magic Show

The Chuck Jones Magic Review will perform at Serramonte Center tomorrow through Sunday. It's an enchanting magic show featuring some of the most baffling magic illusions.

The famous Houdini trunk illusion, live birds appearing from out of nowhere, a lady floating in mid-air and a girl divided into three separate parts will all be part of the program.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

Show times are Thursday and Friday at 1, 2:30, 6 and 7 p.m.; Saturday, 11, 12:30, 2 and 3:30 p.m.; and Sunday 12, 1:30, 3 and 4 p.m.

BEAUTIFICATION

Students of all grade levels joined in an effort to paint a mural to beautify Daly City's Franklin Roosevelt School. "Alphabet and Number on Display" were designed by Marion Bellan's and Barbara Bertram's fourth grade classes. Paint was purchased by the PTA, and work was directed by Mrs. Rosalie Yerby, district art resource teacher. Shown hard at work are (from left) Jenny Green, Emily Stemmerich and Kevin Hartnett.

Fashion Show Is Scheduled

The annual champagne, luncheon and fashion show will be held Nov. 2 at Mercy High School.

"Harvest-To-Holiday" is the theme, with students and guild members modeling fashions from Stonestown shops. Proceeds to Mercy San Francisco Education Program.

Halloween Fair Set in South City

A silent auction will highlight the Halloween Fair which will be presented this week by the United Methodist Women of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Holiday ornaments, crocheted shawls and hanging plants will be among the items on the block. Bids will be accepted from 3:30 to 6:30. Bidders need not be present for the actual auction.

During the 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. event a bazaar also will be in progress in the Fellowship Hall. Baked goods, including cookies and jellies, will be sold as well as white elephant items.

A Mexican style dinner will be served at 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. Meal reservations may be made from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday at the church office. Mrs. Pat Drosky also is accepting dinner reservations.

Following the fair, a party will be given at the hall for the children who have gone out earlier in the day to collect donations for UNICEF's annual Halloween drive.

The church is located at 500 Miller Avenue, South San Francisco.

"PAUL BUNYON'S" BED

Getting ready for Halloween is hard work for Ma and Pa Pumpkin, so they enjoy a good rest in this massive cannonball bed. Standing 6 feet high and over 7 feet long, this unique bed is made of solid New England Pine. Ma and Pa Pumpkin will surely be thankful after tomorrow when they climb the steps for a long sleep after greeting the ghouls and ghosts who glide by on Halloween night. You can see them snuggled in bed now in the window of Westlake Maple Shop in Daly City. Seated is Lloyd D'Augusta, store general manager.

Water Plan Study Gets Board OK

A $5,000 contract for preparation of a comprehensive water resources management plan for San Mateo County was approved last Tuesday by the board of supervisors.

Under terms of the contract, Leeds, Hill and Jewett, Inc., of San Francisco, will provide technical assistance to the Peninsula Water Agency in determining future sources of water and means of bringing it to the county and its cities.

Development of a water resources management plan is authorized under recent state legislation which charges the county with preparation of a water resource plan, with funding to be the responsibility of the county.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

Pow. Pow. Pow. I've been hit with a ton of talent.

Shirley MacLaine. Who else? And need you ask?

The lady is in the business of entertainment. That means you pay your bucks, and hopefully you get your laughs. But with Little Miss Somebody, you get a lot more.

She sings, dances, kids and acts. She laughs and cries and reminds you in a specially written routine why she's a confirmed performer. Besides looking spectacular in a succession of stunning outfits by Jean Louis and Pete Menefee, she has a terrific troupe of nine hoofers to make the party complete.

And that's what it was last week at Circle Star Theater, a big party where she was the big attraction and figured everyone out there in the darkness to be her friend. Boy, oh, boy, count me among them.

Prop. A Supporters Announced

Frank Small, Chairman of the Citizens Committee for a Transit District, today released a list of elected officials, labor, conservationists, leading citizens and organizations from San Mateo County who have expressed their support for Proposition A.

"This is one of the most popular issues ever to appear on the County ballot," Small said. "How often do you get groups like Committee for Green Foothills, the Peninsula Conservation Center and the E.Q.C.C. agreeing on the same issue with the San Mateo County Building and Construction Trades Council and the San Mateo County Development Association?"

Small also announced that the city councils of South San Francisco, Woodside, East Palo Alto, Redwood City, San Bruno, San Carlos, San Mateo, Foster City, Menlo Park, Pacifica, Portola Valley, Brisbane and Daly City, as well as the Board of Supervisors had passed resolutions endorsing Proposition A.

Among the groups urging passage of the Transit District are:

The League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, San Mateo Central Labor Council, Democratic Central Committee, Senior Forum, San Mateo County Council on Aging, San Mateo Council of Mayors, Peninsula Manufacturers Association and various chambers of commerce throughout the County.

Politicians Appear at TN High

By LAURA DEL ROSSO

Campus Correspondent
Two politicians visited Terra Nova this week. Senator George Moscone and Congressman Leo Ryan, who both represent Pacifica in the state and federal governments respectively.

Senator Moscone came to speak to sixth period social science classes on Wednesday, and Congressman Ryan spoke during Jim Soden's and Roger Passera's second and third periods classes on Thursday.

Both Moscone and Ryan were questioned by the students on political issues. National issues were discussed with Ryan because he's on the House Ways and Means Committee. Students asked questions about such issues as Vietnam, the Nixon pardon, the Ford Administration, the Alaskan pipeline, abortion, and amnesty.

The Senior class sponsored its first annual Pancake Breakfast Oct. 26. Proceeds will go to senior events such as the Senior Ball. Students served pancakes.

Shirley MacLaine Shines at Circle Star

City Music Hall.

Between racing offstage and up the long aisle to whip into another fabulous gown, changing shoes in the aisle and running her tapered nails through a tousled mop of red fluffed hair, she creates a special kind of magic that has to do with a lot of hard work, a tremendous desire to please and the kind of never-say-die energy and dynamics that make stars such as Judy Garland, Liza Minelli, Mitzi Gaynor, Debbie Reynolds, Ann-Mar-gret and Shirley MacLaine worth moving a mountain to see.

Some of her material is from the films and musical shows she's been in: "Sweet Charity," "Ten Cents A Dance" and "Hey, Big Spender." "Pajama Game" ("Hernando's Hideaway") and "Steamed Heat" and "Irma La Douce" (the title song). These are her show stoppers sandwiched between what has become her theme song, "If They Could See Me Now" done in high stepping, close strutting, full regalia pomp to the snap of top hats, long legged kicks and a bravado that made even the musicians in the pit stand up and cheer.

Bob Wells wrote special lyrics for her, Cy Coleman provided some great music and Alan Johnson staged it all with the powerhouse precision of the best of Vegas and Tahoe, to say nothing of the Palace. In effect, she's got about the best polished and happily conceived show I've ever seen at Circle Star Theater.

The kid is a clown, a waif, a torrent of talent and an elegant, class act that makes you swell up with pride for the human race and the feeling of admiration that only extraordinary talent can evoke. When she introduced the solo song she sang in that well remembered film with Frank Sinatra, "Some Came Running" and then stood alone on the stage all open and vulnerable and soft and lovable for "I'm A Person Too," you could vow to be a better person and kinder to your neighbor.

But that's where she's so effective because Shirley MacLaine is nobody's fool. She's a tough professional who knows it takes hard work to stay on top and has found time in her life for living (husband, child, politics, travel, writing, lecturing, religion, and the pursuit of self-knowledge) while still personifying that show business credo, "the show must go on" and doing it honestly and unstintingly.

The stage doesn't revolve. She does. There isn't a square foot she doesn't cover, getting lifted into the air, knocked to the ground, catapulting off into the aisle and bouncing back with the verve, vitality and vivacity of a dancing devil, tapping, twirling and toasting her political and show business friends in the audience.

QFI GOLDEN RULES FOR HOME FROZEN FOOD CARE

LOOK FOR:

Neat packages,
free of stains,
tears or dents.

HOW MUCH TO BUY:

Read the label.

If package

use just the

IN THE FREEZER:
Remember to place recent frozen food purchases toward back to bottom, rotating the items to use first the foods which have been stored the longest

STORAGE: Frozen foods may be kept at 0 F. in freezer or freezer compartment for weeks or months.

REFREEZING:
If frozen foods should accidentally defrost, they may be refrozen without appreciable change in quality if the package contents are still cold to touch—at least 40 F., the temperature inside a refrigerator.

The Florida Department of Citrus offers these guidelines for home storage:

- Place frozen citrus juices in the freezer immediately. They can be kept at 0 F. for about one year.
- Keep juice frozen until ready to use. If it should thaw use as soon as possible.
- To reconstitute juice, place can under water or leave opened at room temperature for a few minutes to speed thawing. Follow directions on can.
- Always store the reconstituted juice in a tightly sealed container in the refrigerator to protect flavor and vitamin C.
- Shake or stir the juice vigorously before serving to aerate the juice and bring out peak flavor

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Halloween Happening Holiday Inn, Belmont

There's going to be a Halloween party in the Ivory Coast Lounge of the Holiday Inn, Belmont, Thursday night, and you won't want to miss it. It's called an "Era Party" and guests are invited to come dressed in fashions of the 40's, 50's and 60's. Prizes for all costume categories, with one grand prize. The Platters' Butch Skeene will be the special guest of the evening. With top headliners booked to appear at Circle Star Theater this fall season, is it any wonder George Green wants one and all to know that his Gold Platter restaurant is located just minutes away from the theater. Incidentally, if you're running late and need quick service to make the curtain time, the Gold Platter crew will rise to the situation every time. You can land your broomsticks at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant on Halloween eve and enjoy all kinds of menu treats. Vince Licata and his staff will be ready for "trick or treaters" (both young and young in heart) with an abundance of Italian specialties and seafood selections. Halloween "brew" is also served in the cocktail lounge. Scotty Campbell's, one of the finest restaurants on the Peninsula, serves dinner seven nights a week. Prime rib and steaks are house specialties on the selective menu. Bright Lights recommends the Gourmet Platter for Two (prime sliced sirloin, barbecued ribs, chicken and scampi).

STAR RELAXES

Pretty Francine York, who stars in the forthcoming "Birds of Prey" segment of "Streets of San Francisco," enjoys her favorite cocktail, a smooth Sun-tory Royal Rob Roy, amid the flowers and ferns in Lehr's Greenhouse Garden Restaurant.

World's Smallest Man Is Finocchio Visitor

Misu, the "World's smallest man," showed up at Finocchio's with a six-foot blonde from the circus troupe and was seated ringside on a stool. You never know what celebrity you will see at this world-famous nitery, which features an unusual show of female impersonators. Continental cuisine served at Nick Gust's Moonraker restaurant, which is situated on the shoreline of Pacifica in Rockaway Beach, is drawing big crowds from the Peninsula and San Francisco. Nick's restaurant and Captain Charles, also under the Gust dining banner, are equally popular with large groups, families, and visitors to the coast. For a Nevada Halloween fun fling, Nevada Tours in San Mateo has several package trips with attractive bonus offers. Call Kay (345-0488) and ask about her "bag of tricks" for Drive-Up packages to Reno, South and North Tahoe, Carson City, and Las Vegas. A "bewitching" time is guaranteed. You'll find Cannelloni to take out on the menu at Oliver's in South San Francisco. Although Fred Martinelli's restaurant is well known for its steaks, and seafood, don't overlook his superb Italian dishes. Frank and Fannie Torres are back from vacation and doing a land office business at their Beach Restaurant in Montara (just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One). South American specialties are their forte, and we suggest you try the Arroz Con Pollo (chicken, Peruvian style) or Ceviche, the Peruvian pickled fish. All this can be enjoyed at Frank Torres Beach Hotel any Thursday through Sunday. Welcome back to a great restaurant team.

"Italian Submarines" Invade San Mateo

Italian submarines in downtown San Mateo? Yes and no. Not the Navy variety, but 17 different kinds of sandwiches are listed on the menu at Christopher's, a super hof brau restaurant in Mills Square. "We use a special oil blend on our Eastern-style submarine sandwiches," say owners Ed Murphy and Tom Chigas. For a full evening of entertainment, Mabuhay Gardens Supper Club in San Francisco offers a complete package of fun. Filipino cuisine (a blend of Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish foods), tropical cocktails, nostalgic music for dancing by the 4 Jays, and family-type entertainment featuring lovely Norma Balagtas, one of the top recording artists of the Philippines, in two floorshow (Wednesday through Sunday). Banquet facilities accommodate up to 250 persons. Owners Ness and Julie Aquino honor major credit cards. Valet parking for your convenience. Enrico Romano is still up to his "old tricks" of serving zesty pizzas and superb Italian dinners down Rockaway Beach way, where his Romano's Italian restaurant is known for its versatility when it comes to preparing any dish you'd expect to find on an Italian menu.

Hamburger Haven Tanforan Park

Hamburger Haven, a new restaurant and cocktail lounge, located on the lower level of Tanforan Park Shopping Center, in San Bruno, made its debut last week. Owner Andy Saberi who has made rousing successes out of various other restaurant ventures, expects more of the same with this operation. Adrian Stickney, owner of the Peninsula restaurant empire bearing his name (various Hick'ry Houses and the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto), believes that one of the keys to his success has been to find capable employees. A perfect example of his philosophy is dapper Rodman Peake, who hosts during the evening hours at the Shirt Tail. Peake's background includes restaurant management and catering. Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco is the perfect spot for couples where the guy is a big eater and the gal is on a diet. Steaks are cut to order — any size. So you always get the right size steak to suit your appetite.

Three Essential Phases County Paramedic Plan Equal Priority Sought

A county-wide paramedic plan in which ambulance attendants would be in direct consultation with emergency room physicians should be given equal priority with the police and health services, Dr. Denny Franklin told the San Mateo County Council of Mayors Friday night.

Dr. Franklin, a Millbrae physician and project director of a countywide paramedics project, told the mayors, meeting at the Menlo Country Club in Woodside, that the plan is divided into three essential phases.

The training of emergency personnel so ambulance attendants can be in direct communication with doctors on their way to the hospital and the doctors may have a record of the vital signs of a badly injured person.

The design of a county agency under the County Department of Health and Welfare to make one person responsible to "systemize" the program and the improvement of the training of personnel not only of ambulance crews but those of the hospital emergency room staff so they will be able to react immediately to the information provided by the ambulance crew.

Dr. Franklin reported that San Mateo, Santa Clara and San Francisco counties are among 44 regions out of 250 applications that have been granted funds for two-year pilot projects funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Fund. There were 250 applications submitted, he reported. San Mateo County has received a $314,000 grant for its project.

Dr. Franklin pointed to the possibility of a catastrophe that might occur such as if a 707 jet dropped, as one did some seven years ago.

"All the victims were taken to the same hospital, where eight physicians were standing by. This was the decision of the ambulance drivers whose lack of confidence makes them go to the nearest hospital. This is ridiculous. We hope to categorize hospitals as to what is the best type of service they can offer. The dispatcher will be trained. Where the physician is now treating a patient on the scene by radio, decisions will then be made by logic."

Television portraits of paramedics would not work "if dropped into this county," Dr. Franklin warned.

"Patients still must be transported to hospitals. Nothing has been done except put a lot of red lights around. The paramedic team must be at the top of the service."

One of the most "horrendous" aspects of the problem, according to Dr. Franklin, is that of communications.

He said it could be possible that a physician might think he is treating a local patient, when he is actually treating a cardiac victim in Oakland due to a mix-up in communications.

The FCC, he reported, had assigned eight emergency frequencies, and someone must be responsible for the decision on which frequency is to be used.

"The cost problem will be very large," Dr. Franklin warned.

Mayor Tony Governale of San Bruno said the concern of smaller cities is that they cannot fund individual programs.

"We do not feel the present contract by private ambulances is anywhere adequate. In the smaller cities it is by gosh or by golly if the patient dies in the ambulance."

Dr. Franklin, who reported he is spending half his time now as project director on the program, expressed the hope federal funds will be available once the present two-year grant is completed.

Ryan Warns Takeover

Unless local officials use their own organizations to speak for them in Washington, labor relations between cities and counties and their employees will be taken over by the federal government.

This was the warning issued to the San Mateo County Council of Mayors Friday night by Congressman Leo J. Ryan.

Speaking as a former public school teacher and a Democrat, Ryan at a meeting of the Menlo Country Club in Woodside, warned that a federal bill to bring staffs of publically supported hospitals under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act, will be extended to other municipal and county employees.

Citing the pressures exerted by labor in Washington, Ryan told the mayors, supervisors and city managers present they should use their own professional organizations to present their stands to their legislators.

Ryan said he thought public employees have an alternative right to organize and vote for new public officials, but their right to strike "should be severely limited. Teachers, police, firemen can go to the polls and organize candidates."

"The trend is there, and it will continue unless you organize yourselves," he warned. But, he added, "we should be able to limit the restrictions and rights under which public employees work."

He urged organizations such as the National Council of Cities, the National Council of Supervisors and the National Association of City Managers to represent themselves in Washington to counteract the pressure pressed by labor lobbyists.

"The reason we are now in this position is that we did not enforce the law that the public employees cannot strike," Mayor McRobert L. Stewart of Daly City, chairman of the mayors' council, contended.

Councilman Sidney Loran of Pacifica recommended that when a public employee strikes illegally, the city council should order the chief of police to arrest him.

MECHANIC

Airman Alfredo M. Fortis, son of Mrs. L.V. Fortis of 830 Skyline Drive, Daly City, has graduated at Chantute AFB, Ill., from the U.S. Air Force jet engine mechanic course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, now trained to inspect and repair turbo-jet and gas turbine engines, is being assigned to Hamilton AFB, Calif., for duty with a unit of the Military Airlift Command.

Airman Fortis is a 1973 graduate of Westmoor High School.

Le Paelni Series' Stupidity

If the World Series did nothing else, it perhaps helped convince some Giants fans that the Giants aren't the only team in baseball which plays stupidly. Even championship teams can do it. In fact, the Dodgers just didn't play well at all, either mentally or physically. The pundits would probably say that it had to do with their youth and inexperience in big pressure games.

It more likely had to do with the fact that while the A's were not that much superior to the Dodgers, they just didn't beat themselves.

And by the way, we're not too sure that at least two A's didn't deserve the Series MVP award more than Rollie Fingers. Joe Rudi not only played his usual good left field and filled in acceptably at first base, a position at which he has little experience and isn't easy to play, especially in a World Series, but he was the A's second leading hitter (.333), tied with Campy Campaneris for most series hits (six) for the A's, drove in more runs than anybody in the Series (four), tied with Campy for most runs scored (six) in the series, and topped it off by driving in the winning run in the game that won the Series. If Campy hadn't made two errors, he would have been a top candidate, as well, and if Dick Green HAD gotten a couple of hits, he might have been it.

Two last comments (for now) about the Series. If they were in the right kind of pools, people who held slips on 3-2 scores might have made out better financially than the players. And Jerry Jock Ford, our southpaw president, thinks like one and lost our vote by doing the unthinkable — making a major speech which ran into the regular starting time of a World Series game. Come to think of it, he made a speech during the playoffs, too. For a former athlete, he doesn't think too well. Reality, no matter how terrible, should never intrude on the fantasy of a World Series. It wouldn't have hurt to let people forget about inflation for a few more hours.

LOCAL NOTES:

If you haven't already figured it out, that St. Louis-Met trade involving Card firstbaseman Joe Torre going to New York, argues well for local boy Keith Hernandez, who is the only other first baseman on the Cardinal roster. For several years now he has been called their brightest hitting prospect, and after leading the American Association in hitting (.351) this past season and compiling a .294 BA for the big team in 14 end-of-season games, it seems apparent that the Cards have virtually handed the job to Keith.

Speaking of Cardinal trades, their one with the Giants, in which they got reliever Elias Sosa in exchange for rookie catcher Marc Hill, is a good one for the Giants, who need a solid catcher and might now have one. Hill, along with Hernandez, has been considered one of the best prospects in the Cardinal chain for the past few years. Many consider him the best young catcher in baseball, at least potentially. He can't run, but catchers don't have to, and he is reported to have a gun for an arm and has a history of genuine power hitting. If he's so good, you ask, why did the Cards get rid of him? For one thing, they need good relief pitching, and Sosa qualifies. For another, they already have perhaps the most underrated and certainly the most durable catcher in the game in Ted Simmons, a good receiver who hit over .300 for three consecutive seasons, and then when he didn't do it this year, just hit 20 homers and drove in 103 runs.

If you watched that recent television program concerning high school football injuries, we hope you took special note of the doctors' claims that the hard, unyielding helmets are more responsible for serious injury than any other piece of equipment, a theory this column was espousing 8-10 years ago.

But of course there's always an exception to every theory. Which is why this item is under "Local Notes." Apparently, the theory works in reverse at Terra Nova High, where fullback Tony Ballestrasse seems to be proving that football players are dangerous to football helmets. As of two weeks ago, Tony had gone through three of them; cracked 'em. We haven't checked the helmet situation recently, but can report that Ballestrasse's head is still intact, as well as can be expected.

WHILE WE'RE on Terra Nova, a bouquet, as some gossip columnist used to say, to the Terra Nova Minute-men, that intrepid group of thieves who, passing themselves off as San Mateo Times reporters, purloined The Anchor (symbol of football supremacy between Terra Nova and Oceana) not only right from under the nose of Oceana principal Joe Conway (who, ironically, once worked at Terra Nova), but literally from his hands. They conned Conway into personally releasing it from his office so that they could "get better pictures of it outside."

Once out of the building the two "Times" reporters and brains of the scheme, Tom Minshew and Tony Ficken, TN juniors, threw the anchor into a waiting van, its motor being kept running by co-conspirators Mark Wheatley and Minshew's sophomore sister Barbara, and escaped triumphantly.

That's a simplified version of a long and complicated story, one which had a master plan as ingenious as the Brinks Caper, and which has already been told in more detail in all of the local weeklies.

It gets special mention here not only because we appreciate the imagination, skill, guts and integrity (they returned the Anchor three hours after the heist) of the kids, but also because they have proven that today's "screwed-up" generation is as capable of Good-Clean-Fun as was our screwed-up generation, and that Good-Clean-Fun is still fun.

Congratulations to Dan Farmer, Hal Hardin and David J. Cox, who were recently the first three men to be inducted into San Francisco State's newly established Athletic Hall of Fame. It was this trio who laid the groundwork for State's now nationally known physical education program.

Cox was the first Gator football and track coach, first division chairman and Dean of physical education, and was also a Dean of students.

Farmer was the first basketball coach, was a tennis coach, department chairman, and put in a decade as Assistant Dean during his 40 years of service at State. We personally best remember him as the first man to tell us that Don Larsen had thrown a perfect game in the World Series. Which shows why Farmer got further than we have. While yours truly was taking a test, he had cancelled a

Warriors in NPL Driver's Seat

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

A wild four-team run for the North Peninsula League championship may have been averted by an inch or two Friday night in South San Francisco.

That's where the South City Warriors rallied to defeat strong Terra Nova 21-14 and remain undefeated after four conference outings.

Had Terra Nova managed to hold on for the final 97 seconds there would have been a four-way first place tie today. But as it stands the Warriors are clearly in the driver's seat heading down the stretch.

It was a heartbreaker for the Tigers and new head coach Bob Lotti. Terra Nova's offensive line clearly outplayed the highly-respected Warrior defense in a classic matchup. Running backs Tony Ballestrasse and Dave Matas bulled right at the Warriors, getting 152 of the 159 yard rushing total.

But it was the Tigers' inability to cover on pass defense that killed their chances. Warrior quarterback Frank Cesarz completed only three of six passes but totaled 132 yards.

Cesarz opened things up just before the first quarter ended when he hit tight end Bruce McDonald on a 62-yard strike. But the Tigers came back with Ballestrasse going over from the two just after the start of the second quarter.

Terra Nova regained possession on a punt and roared upfield with Matas and Ballestrasse decimating the Warrior middle until Ballestrasse capped it all with a three-yard plunge giving the Tigers a 14-7 lead.

South City changed the momentum and may have saved itself the win right before halftime when halfback Darryl Tillery rolled left and, just before being smothered out of bounds, jumped high and fired a perfect left-handed pass to Paul Bachtold from the 29 to make the halftime score 14-13, TN.

It stayed that way until the fourth quarter. Terra Nova was driving with the lead, and had a fourth down and inches situation on SSF's 45.

Lotti went for the first down, and it appeared that Ballestrasse had easily picked up the first. But the officials marked the ball back, ignored pleas for a measurement and awarded a first down to South City.

That was all the break the Warriors needed. Terra Nova dropped Cesarz for a 10-yard loss but on the next play Cesarz nailed Bachtold for a 36-yard completion and, with 1:37 left, again found Bachtold wide open from the 34 for the Warriors' second straight 21-14 win (both of which were earned in the final two minutes).

Terra Nova had one final shot. Three completions brought the ball to the 50, but with seconds left Rich Strafull's desperation toss was intercepted by Cesarz on the seven to end the best NPL game of the year.

The Warriors managed just 74 yards rushing and were hampered by the loss of fullback Bob Luster, who sustained a rib injury in practice during the week and didn't play.

Westmoor 20, HMB 6

The sagging Westmoor ground attack received a needed boost with the full-time return of halfback Rob Baptista, who combined with fullback Dan Tong to lead Westmoor to a last-quarter win.

Tong, broke a 6-6 tie with an eight-yard run with 4:30 left in the game. The Ram defense then set up the final TD as Craig Brown intercepted a Scott Jones aerial and ran it back 42 yards to the two. After a five-yard penalty, Terry Hartsfield took a scoring pass from Harold Day for the last tally.

Tong carried 28 times for 132 yards while Baptista netted 94 yards in 17 carries.

Regents 7, Jeff 0

Jerome Williams' 75-yard touchdown pass from Keith Pult on Serramonte's third play of the game was the only thing the Regents needed to stay in second place.

Winless Jefferson once again came up short but impressive defensively. The Indians held the more talented Regents to 95 yards rushing while Jeff halfback Rich Huertas got 106 of Jeff's 114 yards himself.

Colts 14, Oceana 0

One spectacular long run and a rather surprising Oceana play led to El Camino's win. Halfback Mike Evans scooted 52 yards on the first play of the second quarter to give the Colts all they needed.

With seven minutes left in the game Oceana had a first down on their own 45. A touchdown pass was called back on a holding penalty, and another 14-yarder on the next play attempt made it first down back on the 15. After one running play netted minus five yards, the Sharks decided to quick-kick on second down. But Colt linebacker Gary Ottonello caught the ball at the line of scrimmage and ran in for the final touchdown.

A Bitter Loss For Serra Pads

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Serra High's football team took its first bite of the meat part of the West Catholic Athletic League Saturday night at Redwood City's Terremere Field.

The taste was a bitter one for the Padres.

St. Francis of Mountain View, coming on like gangbusters after a slow pre-season start, upset Serra 7-6 in the first use of the WCAL's tie-breaker point system.

The loss, the Padres' first of the season, gave them an overall record of 6-1 and 2-1 in league. SF, the defending loop champ and CCS runner-up, has won four straight for a 4-2, 3-0 mark.

Both teams have yet to face unbeaten powerhouse Mitty, a solid title favorite.

With the score tied at the end of regulation time, the ball was put into play at midfield. Each team ran four plays, alternately, with the tie-breaking point going to whoever ended up keeping the ball on the opponents' side of the 50.

St. Francis was in the hole on its last play at the SF 40, but completed a perfect 12-yard sideline pass to keep alive.

Needing a little over two yards, Padre quarterback Jim Freitas decided to throw to tight end Rich Allen, who already had five catches for 54 yards.

Allen, however, got tangled up at the line and couldn't get free. So when Freitas rolled to his right and stopped to throw, there was nobody to throw to.

A St. Francis linebacker, blitzing from his right, then blindsided Freitas for an eight-yard loss.

Serra did feel that Allen had been held illegally.

John Caselli turned a quick pass in the flat from Freitas into a 36-yard scoring play with 33 seconds left in the first quarter with some outstanding running.

The Padres, who had their only other threat stopped on a fourth down second quarter incomplete pass from the Lancer four, were plagued by a virtually non-existent rushing attack that netted just five yards on 15 attempts.

Freitas completed 16-30 passes for 194 yards, but couldn't establish any consistent offensive movement without the running game.

Serra's defense ironically played its best overall game of the season. But SF's well-drilled stoppers were more than equal to the task against a Padre offense averaging 33.8 points per game.

PWL Giants Top Foes

It's not nice to fool with the Giants of the Peninsula Winter League.

After suffering their second loss of the PWL campaign last weekend, the PWL leaders came back to score three white-wash victories this weekend.

On Saturday Stan Moline struck-out 11 batters and allowed just a fourth-inning single and a solitary walk enroute to a 5-0 victory over the Mets. Rich Vujovich and Bob Baptista homered for the winners.

In Sunday's first game Glenn Williams belted a round-tripper to lead the Giants to a 5-0 win over the Phillies. And in the nightcap the Giants exploded for 14 hits enroute to a 17-0 rout of the Mets.

Following are the weekend PWL results:

Mateoettes Score High

Kristen Ritchie and April Schorch of the San Mateo Mateoettes Synchronized Swimming Team swept first place honors in the duet event at the PAAU 12-and-Under Invitational Synchronized Swimming Championships held in Santa Clara over the weekend.

Miss Ritchie placed second in the figure event with a score of 23.759 while her parents, April, took third with a score of 23.725. Team-mate Silke Randau placed fifth in figures. April took the second place medal in the solo event with a score of 74.825, while Kristen scored third with a score of 74.459.

The Mateoette team composed of Ritchie, Schorch, Randau, and Debbie Schorch placed second in the team event with a score of 60.778. Michelle Fajardo, Julie Lamp, Leslie Roepke, and Tomlyn Shannon, also of the Mateoettes, placed seventh in the team event with a score of 56.010.

Padres Second In X-Country

Serra High's cross-country team finished second out of 11 teams Saturday at the Blossom Hill Challenge in San Jose.

The Padres, runners-up to powerful Lick by six points, had the individual winner in Gerry Harnett, who ran an extremely hilly 3.0 mile course in 17:48.

CSM, Skyline Are Seventh

College of San Mateo and Skyline both ran to seventh place finishes in the Mt. San Antonio cross country invitational over the weekend.

CSM competed in the medium division — which featured most of the state's top large schools. Defending state champion Grossmont won easily with 42 points to San Joaquin Delta's 74 while CSM had 231.

San Mateo coach Bob Rush left his top runner Jim Van Dine at home to rest an injured leg. CSM's top placer was frosh Damon Wood in 26th place, while soph Dana Carvey was 46th.

Skyline tallied 177 points in the small division race in which De Anza of the Golden Gate Conference was a surprise winner with 90 points over favored Glendale.

Fullerton won the large division with 58 points.

Ski Show at Auditorium

The KFRC Ski Show, featuring the latest ski equipment and augmented by a concert featuring the Righteous Brothers and Jim Stafford and the Hues Corporation, will be held Saturday at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

The concerts will be held at 12 noon and 6 p.m. The show will also feature a fashion show and ski demonstrations. Tickets are priced at $7 and are available at most ski shops, department stores and travel agencies.

CSM in First Place

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

Suddenly College of San Mateo is back in a first place deadlock in the Golden Gate Conference football race.

CSM's convincing 25-0 rout of once-beaten De Anza Saturday coupled with Diablo Valley's stunning 28-27 upset of previously unbeaten San Jose CC left the Bulldogs tied with San Jose at 4-1 in league play.

And CSM can take the undisputed lead Friday night when the Bulldogs visit Laney, as the Jaguars draws bye.

"We finally played like we thought we're capable of playing," said CSM coach Steve Shafer following Saturday afternoon's victory.

San Mateo completely dominated the 18th ranked (in the state) Dons, who brought a lofty 4-1 season record to town. De Anza crossed mid-field only once in the first half and then not again until the fourth quarter.

Meanwhile, Bulldog place-kicking expert Steve LaPlant became the school's all-time career kick-scoring leader after kicking field goals of 45 and 26 yards plus a PAT during the game. That gave the sophomore from Aragon 84 points in two seasons at CSM, six more than former record holder Alex Addy (who once held the since-bettered league record too).

LaPlant is also the current state leader in field goals with ten this season, the longest 47 yards. He narrowly missed on efforts of 47 and 52 yards Saturday — both long enough but slightly wide.

There was no doubt as to which team won the battle of the league's top two defenses, CSM moving ahead of the Dons in season defensive status by outgaining them 279-183 yards Saturday. St. Francis grad Dan McCrone of De Anza, the league's leading rusher, netted only ten yards on six carries. No Don ball carrier gained more than 32 yards.

De Anza had given up only 76 total net yards rushing the entire season but CSM alone added 122 yards to that total — Howard Avila being the leader of the day with 47 yards on 13 tries.

CSM marched 75 yards in 14 plays following the opening kickoff to score on a four-yard dash around right end by Greg Smith. That proved to be the only points until LaPlant's two third-quarter field goals.

Any hopes of a De Anza comeback were dashed by alert defenders pouncing on four fumbles in the fourth quarter. Paul Brandow, who had earlier deflected a pass so that Joe Atkinson could intercept it, recovered one of the fumbles and Atkinson another. Frosh stinger Jeff Hansen from San Carlos was in on two recoveries.

San Mateo turned two of those fumbles into scores. Smith and John Hart carrying them in after short drives. Bulldog quarterback Rudy Castellanos had a good day (12 of 21 for 157 yards with no interceptions), with Steve Barnes grabbing five and Bill Fass three.

Shafer cited the return of a healthy offensive line as an important factor — pointing to the play of guards Greg Erickson and Rover Varwig, center James Sibold, and tackles Rich Lawson and Mike Solari — the latter going both ways.

U.S.S.R. National Team

Olga Korbut at the Cow Palace

Olga Korbut, the darling of women's gymnastics, will perform at the San Francisco Cow Palace Nov. 12 as a member of the touring U.S.S.R. National Gymnastics Team — which also includes Olympic All-Around champ Ludmila Tourischeva.

This first ever Bay Area appearance of the Soviet men's and women's squads, one of seven stops on a U.S.A. tour, is sponsored by the San Francisco Examiner for the benefit of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation and Examiner Charities.

The Russian contingent of 16 men and women performers includes eight world or Olympic champions.

They'll stage a two hour and 15 minute fully prepared evening extravaganza which also includes acrobatics and modern gymnastics, plus musical accompaniment.

Nikolai Andrianov headlines the Soviet men's group. He's the Olympic gold medalist in free exercise and took all-around honors at last year's World University Games in Moscow.

Although Miss Tourischeva won the all-around titles in the last Olympic ('72) and world ('70) championships, it was Miss Korbut who electrified the world via television with her daring Munich Olympic performances — such as an unprecedented backward somersault on the balance beam.

Only 4-foot-11 and 83 pounds, Miss Korbut rose from tragedy to triumph as a 17-year-old at Munich. During the all-around competition she slipped and touched the floor mounting the uneven parallel bars and lost with a 7.5 score.

But the pig-tailed Olga came back to delight the judges and her world-wide audience with her dancing, flying, laughing floor exercise for one gold; another on the balance beam with her back somersault.

Olga's unique captivating "flik flak" backward somersault from the upper to lower parallel bars earned her a silver medal there.

Trip to Stanford Game Scheduled

The Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department and the Laguna Salada Union School District, will co-sponsor a football trip to see the Stanford Cardinals battle the Oregon State Beavers.

The game will be held at Stanford Stadium Nov. 2. Buses will leave Pacifica at 10:30 a.m., and return to Pacifica at approximately 6 p.m.

The trip is open to any seventh and eighth grade boy or girl participating in the After School Sports Program. Permission slips and money, paid in full, must be turned into the After School Sports Leader at your school today before 5 p.m.

For further information about the trip, call Dave Barry, Recreation Supervisor at 355-4151, extension 33.

The Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will sponsor an adult basketball league. The league will get underway Nov. 5. All games will be played at Oceana High School.

Each team must have 50 per cent of their roster of players either working or residing in Pacifica. Pacifica teams will be given preference in the league.

And she had a third "gold" as a member of the six-time Olympic champion U.S.S.R. women's team.

Suddenly the frail-looking youngster from the Russian-Polish border city of Grodno was the idol of people throughout the world — And not just sports fans. It was little surprise that Associated Press voted Miss Korbut Female Athlete of the Year (for 1972) — the first gymnast ever to receive that honor.

Interest in gymnastics has increased tremendously since the Olympics as millions of young girls have found a feeling of identity, a desire to be like Olga, "the little princess."

Proceeds from the U.S.S.R. appearance at the Cow Palace Nov. 12 will help in the development of gymnastics in the U.S.A., through the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, and also benefit S.F. Examiner Charities — which annually provides more than $45,000 for worthwhile community programs.

Tickets, priced at $4 and $5, may be purchased in San Francisco from the Examiner, 110 Fifth St., and the Downtown Center Box Office; in Oakland at Brueners; at the San Jose Box Office — plus at the Cow Palace, all Bay Area Macy's and all Ticketron locations.

Major annual Examiner Charities athletic events include Family Night with the Warriors, the Examiner Indoor Track and Field Games and the Pacific Association (AAU) Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament.

The U.S.S.R. Men's and Women's National Gymnastics Team U.S.A. tour schedule: Nov. 8-9 — Philadelphia Spectrum; Nov. 12 — San Francisco Cow Palace; Nov. 13 — Los Angeles Sports Arena; Nov. 15 — New York Madison Square Garden; Nov. 17-18 — Boston Garden; Nov. 20 — Cleveland Coliseum; Nov. 22-23 — Washington Capitol Center.

Girls Learning Judo at George Washington School

George Washington School in Daly City conducts self-defense and Judo classes for girls every Monday from 2:30 to 4 p.m. under the direction of school vice principal Shelley Fernandez, and Ms. Annie Williams, all Brown belts in Judo. The students, all girls, are learning how to defend themselves from attack, how to escape and how to hit back if necessary.

Mrs. Fernandez, said the girls learn mental as well as physical discipline.

According to Mrs. Fernandez, the classes, sponsored by the YWCA of San Mateo, are designed to instill in young women self-confidence and strength.

Judo classes for boys are held every Wednesday from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

This is the second year that Judo has been offered at George Washington.

Aragon Is Still Unbeaten

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

Aragon High football players said they were just tired of losing.

Coach Dick Breaux wore an easy I-told-you-so grin.

And the Dons, continuing one of the most complete turnabouts in the history of the Mid-Peninsula League, remained unbeaten Friday with a 27-12 win over host Burlingame.

Aragon, 6-0 over-all and 3-0 in the MPL, meets San Mateo (5-0, 2-0) next Friday in a game that could decide the championship.

Aragon used to be one of the few reliables in County prep football in a negative sense. They could usually be counted on to lose.

That's all changed. "It all started during the summer," said senior Al Paolucci, a 6-1, 235-pound tackle who plays both ways.

"It was a complete change in attitude," said Kevin Matlock, a senior standout at middle guard. "After last year we got together and decided we were tired of losing. We got together during the summer and started conditioning. And this fall we kept it up, with really tough practices."

"HARD conditioning," added Paolucci.

"We'd run 20 40s (forty-yard dashes) and then coach would ask us if we were ready to start warming up — with 100s," said Matlock. "We've gotten together — nobody cuts anybody down. And everyone plays. And that's not just when we're away ahead."

The Dons, with the steady defensive play that has marked their success this season, held Burlingame to 23 yards offense in the first half and ran up a 27-0 third quarter lead before relaxing.

Aragon's style was simple and direct. The Dons scored their first two touchdowns after the defense procured good field position. Steve Hardman ran over from four yards out on one drive and quarterback Jim Chakos hit Wayne Bergland on an 11-yard scoring pass to give the Dons a 14-0 halftime lead.

In the third quarter line-backer Jim Perris intercepted a Panther pass and the Dons scored in one play, a 16-yard pass from Chakos to Duane Yamauchi. The final Don score was a 52-yard fumble recovery return by Jeff Hart.

Burlingame put together one drive, capped by Rick Harper's two-yard run, and scored again after Andy Pruett recovered an Aragon fumble at the Don 16. Byron Hawkins tallied from two yards out.

Harper was the game's leading rusher with 73 yards in 14 carries. Chakos hit 12 of 20 passes for 168 yards.

Aragon defenders scooped up two Panther fumbles and intercepted three passes.

"I thought from the beginning we could be contenders," said Breaux. "I told them if we could get past Cap we'd be tough to beat. And we did."

Hardman injured his arm near the end of the game and was taken to the hospital for X-rays. Chakos took a shot in the head, also in the waning moments and did not return to the game.

Knights Get First Victory

Hillsdale High's football team hit the Mid-Peninsula League win column for the first time with a bang Friday night.

The Knights smacked Mills, 30-20, at Burlingame field to break a three-game losing streak.

Hillsdale is 2-4 over-all and 1-2 in the MPL. Mills is 2-3 and 1-1.

The Knights didn't get to play ball control, running 22 less plays than Mills, but still banged for 241 yards with an average of six yards a snap.

Van Batchelder led Hillsdale to a 16-6 halftime lead with a two-yard quarterback sneak to paydirt and a 23-yard pass to Rick Reynolds.

Mills scored in the first quarter on a Bob Merrill-Fred Giusti to pass play for 31 yards.

Hillsdale stretched its lead to 30-6 in the second half on a 24-yard third quarter pass from Batchelder to Mark Reynolds and a 69-yard Reynolds interception return in the fourth quarter.

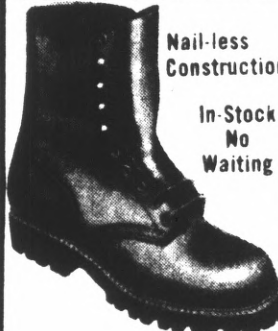

The Vikings scored two late touchdowns on Clay Bullwinkel's four-yard run and Dave Holt's seven-yard blast.

Mills punished the Knight defense for 313 yards, but Reynolds' interception, a Paul Perry interception near his goal line, and Paul Bogel's recovery of a fumbled punt to set up Hillsdale's second score did much to nullify that wad.

Bullwinkel and Hillsdale's Dewey Bohling, two of the best backs around, staged a worthy battle. Bullwinkel had 130 yards on 28 carries (4.6) while Bohling was 16-118 (7.4). —Steve Johnson class and was watching the World Series, like any sensible man.

Hardin, during his 35 years at State, put in time as the college's first aquatics coach, and was also served as baseball coach and department chairman.

LAST WEEK we mentioned the ironic fact that Texas moved their fences in this year to accommodate their young slugger, Jeff Burroughs, and that he hit five fewer homers than he had last year against the long fences, while the Texans as a team hit 11 fewer. What space didn't allow us to mention was that Burroughs improved his average this year over last year by 23 points (301-278), that Texas went from .254 (ninth in the league) to a league leading .272, and that Burroughs increased his run output from 156 (71 scored, 86 RBI) to 202 (84 scored, a league leading 118), while the team scored 71 more runs . . . and, of course, went from one of the worst teams in the majors to a genuine contender. All of which either says something against homerun hitting or for percentage hitting.

While we're still on hitting—or lack of—were you aware of the fact that Bobby Bonds has the TWO highest single-season strikeout totals in major league history? And he did it back-to-back, which also gives him the undisputed title for most K's in two consecutive seasons. He whiffed 187 times in '69, took the gas 189 times in '70.

If you don't believe that baseball runs in cycles, never changes in the mind of the public, consider the following quote from a late September, 1969 Sporting News:

"The baseball season is too long. Interest in the pennant race is on the wane. With few exceptions, the National League teams are giving tiresome perfunctory exhibitions of ball."

Bearcats Use New Weapons

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

San Mateo High's football team found a new way to win Friday.

And although it didn't suit the Bearcats' style, all they cared about was a 13-0 win over scrappy Crestmoor in a Mid-Peninsula League game at San Mateo.

The victory kept SM perfect with a 5-0 record, 2-0 in the MPL. Crestmoor is 1-5, and 0-3.

The rare Bearcat weapon was the pass, which had before been only taken use in SM's ground-oriented offense.

But Crestmoor stacked up the Bearcats almost the entire game, and kept San Mateo at a scoreless tie until 4:06 remained in the third quarter.

At that point Bearcat quarterback Dave Savidge hit Barry Johnson for 33 yards and a score. A little less than three minutes later, Savidge found Mike Smith for 45 yards and another score.

On both occasions, San Mateo's receivers angled to the sidelines on first down and were behind defenders after the catches.

"I really didn't want to use that stuff," said Bearcat coach Buz Williams. But when they've got 11 guys up front, those plays are going to be open."

The Falcons, of course, weren't frontally massed that much, but it must have seemed like it to a Bearcat backfield that had previously compiled some gaudy stats.

San Mateo netted only 58 yards on 34 rushes. League-leading rusher Scott Tarleton had just 46 yards on 16 carries.

Crestmoor actually played the Bearcats even outside of Savidge's strikes, but the Falcon offense suffered a mortal blow at the end of the first half when quarterback Larry Navilhon broke his arm.

San Mateo, which gave up only one second half first down, recorded its third shutout.

Crestmoor's hard-driving junior back, John Maxoutopolis, was the afternoon's leading rusher with 65 yards on 19 carries.

Your Ego and What It Can Cost You

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor of the Barometer

A person does not have to be egocentric to experience a feeling of satisfaction when his name and personal accomplishments are recorded in print.

Relatively few people shun public acclaim, and it is this bashful eagerness that is the silent persuader motivating them to pay their personal histories published in the many varieties of vanity publications. What often amounts to a self-composed testimonial is either never published or, if published, circulated to a short list of readers.

Whether the publication is an encyclopedia, a quasi "who's who" or not really true blue blood social register, the introduction is characteristically the same: "you have been selected" or "you have been nominated" and the next move is up to you.

Sometimes the initial letter of invitation makes no reference to cost, in which case the oversight is later corrected. Where an initial cost is divulged, there invariably follows an appreciable increase for other services which will also be described later.

One example — an encyclopedia-type publication which directs its letters of invitation to the windows of "famous men" as well as to others. While the initial letter points out that copies of the book containing the biography of the person selected are available at about $40 a copy, it later turns out that in order to include a photo of the biographically there is an additional cost involved. This ranges from $150 for a half tone up to $1,000 for etched portraits.

The Bureau has been informed that about 85 per cent of the biographies included are illustrated — accounting for a sizable chunk of money.

There is another form of puffery — a kind of middle income social register which realizes its profits through the sale of the book. Letters from those solicited for inclusion indicate that it isn't quite who you are that counts, since invitations have been received by people unable to pay for such "honors."

Others complain that they are aware of no circumstances, genealogical or otherwise, which would qualify them for inclusion among the ranks of the "400" set. And they further note that if others are to be included in the book are of equally unimpressive lineage who would want it!

Another variation is the publication which guarantees an impressive story about a company executive in return for the purchase of advertising at a cost of more $2,500. In other cases there may be no obligation whatsoever to advertise — however, there is an "appropriate" public relations fee.

If you are approached to have your photo appear in a publication, or for the purchase of books, etc., and money is asked for, check the reliability of the company with the BBB.

Colma Student Honored

Mary Dollar of Colma is one of ten students attending College of Notre Dame in Belmont who will be listed in the 1974 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Students are selected by a special committee on student honors and awards, on the basis of their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential. Those chosen join an elite group of students from more than 1,000 institutions of higher learning in North and South America.

Outstanding students have been honored in this annual directory since 1934.

Halloween Party

Ghosts and Ghostesses of all ages are invited to attend a Halloween Party at the United Methodist Church of Daly City, 1474 Southgate Ave. Thursday from 7:30-9 p.m., states chairwoman Celinda Current. Bewitching events scheduled include movies, games, refreshments and a costume parade at 8 p.m. A Haunted House sponsored by the Youth Fellowship under Pat Perrequet is also available for those souls brave enough to enter. Collecting for UNICEF before going to the party are (from left) Peter Current, Keirstan Current and Patty Giusti. Donating is Mrs. Eleanor Giusti.

READY TO TAKE THE PLUNGE

Dedication of the Westmoor Pool, in the planning and construction phase for some 10 years, is expected to be held within three weeks. Kirk-Chapman & Associates were engineers on the pool, built by Gil-Winn Construction Co. Interior view (lower) of pool shows racing platforms (background) and diving boards. Structure (right) was designed to blend with other Westmoor school buildings.

Quarry Permit Renewal OK'd

The Pacifica City Council approved a year's renewal of the use permit for Rhodes and Jamieson's quarry operation, following a hearing Monday night that consumed most of the meeting.

The quarry, in Rockaway Beach, has been in operation for over half a century.

The hearing stemmed from an appeal by Mrs. Marilyn A. Peters of Vallejo, who objected to the planning commission's approval of the permit.

She appealed on four grounds:

- The quarry use permit was not approved by the coastal commission.
- The $10,000 performance bond is not big enough in case the quarry operation should shut down.
- Suitable ground cover is lacking on the slope.
- The hill slopes vary abruptly instead of being rounded off and erosion is already taking place.

Although Mrs. Peters' appeal was overruled, it did have some effect.

The council voted to double the performance bond to $20,000, on the basis that inflation had eroded the value of the $10,000 bond since it had been posted in 1968, at which time Rhodes and Jamieson took over the Rockaway quarry operation.

The amount of the bond was the major issue at the hearing. At one point, the council considered making the bond high enough to complete the grading plan, should Rhodes and Jamieson close down. H. Boyd Gainer, vice-president of Rhodes and Jamieson, objected.

It was the responsibility of his landlord, Ideal Cement Co., to complete the plan, he insisted. Although his firm was grading according to the plan, he did not think that he would necessarily complete it by the time his 10-year lease with Ideal expired in 1978.

He said the firm would close immediately if the bond were increased to cover the grading.

However, Gainer accepted both the doubling of the performance bond, and the doubling of the tonnage fee, to four cents a ton.

Councilman Stan Farber also based the increased tonnage fee on inflation. He first had moved to increase the tonnage fee to five cents and to have it include all materials sold through the plant, in addition to the rock and gravel quarried there. However, the other councilmen believed more study was needed, and the motion died.

Councilmen over-ruled some of Mrs. Peters' other points of appeal.

It was not the responsibility of the city to be concerned over the coastal commission's permits.

Gainer agreed to round off the slopes as the grading progressed.

The council asked that more suitable ground cover be planted, at councilwoman Grace McCarthy's motion. Farber and Sid Loran, however, opposed the motion, because they alleged it was too vague.

Rhodes & Jamieson was supported by a number of citizens.

Bill Hammer of Flores Drive paid tribute to the cement that Rhodes and Jamieson donated to the Pacifica Boys Club over the years, and urged support for firms which take part in community activities.

Restaurateur Nick Gust, a close neighbor of the quarry, recalled a photograph displayed at his restaurant which shows the quarry in 1928, with a big ugly bite already taken out of the hill, long before the present operator took over.

Kitty Bouly of Pedro Point cited the firm as Pacifica's only industry.

"I hate to see local persons put out of work," she said.

Phil Pruitt, 897 Clara Terrace, said Pacifica has enjoyed lower costs for building materials because of the local operation.

Testimonial Dinner Set

Reservations are still being accepted for the testimonial dinner planned Nov. 1 at San Mateo Elks' Club for David C. Carr, former trustee of the Burlingame Elementary School District, according to reservations chairman Marge Miller.

She said both reservations and retirement gift contributions are still arriving in the mail. The program, with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 o'clock will honor Carr's 11 years of community service.

Bruno Will 'Consider' Skyline Parkway Plan

Pacifica officials may be happy to know that San Bruno Monday night voted unanimously to consider the concept of the Skyline Scenic Parkway, as shown on Pacifica's general plan and coastal area plan of 1960.

But the coastal city's officials might not become too overjoyed about the San Bruno position, mainly because of the way Councilman Dick Griffith phrased the motion.

"I move that we are considering the concept, and that we will continue to consider the concept," he said in an obvious reference to the fact the concept may be "considered" for some time.

The scenic route concept, adopted by the Pacifica City Council Sept. 8, 1969, shows a road running along the ridge line between Fessler Avenue on the south and Sharp Park Road on the north.

This concept acceptance was part of a package of joint boundary areas that the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) had urged be settled as amicably as possible by the two cities.

An ad hoc sphere of influence committee, consisting of representatives of each city, had proposed that several other boundary matters be agreed to by both civic bodies.

The San Bruno Council found no argument with the proposal that the San Francisco Jail property be considered within San Bruno's sphere of influence, or that the Coast Guard site remain unincorporated as a buffer area outside either city's sphere of influence.

San Bruno planners were split on the concept of the Skyline Scenic Parkway.

And the city council at its meeting two weeks ago voted a 2-2 deadlock on the roadway concept after Councilman George Corey had been excused earlier in the meeting.

That deadlock, explained Councilwoman Margaret Kozkowski Monday night was brought about mainly because Tony Gormale thought a full council should be present to vote on such a matter.

Mrs. Kozkowski said she could not vote against the concept because for the past 34 years she has supported it as a representative of the council.

Griffith's motion, which was quickly passed unanimously, apparently saved the day — until a more hard-nosed decision must be made.

School Issues Take Spotlight

A program featuring candidates and issues involving the San Mateo Union High School District is scheduled for today at 7:30 p.m. in the San Mateo High School Library.

The program, co-sponsored by the school's PTA and the League of Women Voters of Central San Mateo County, will open with brief presentations by school board candidates Carol Gonella, Col. Robert Rhea, and Gordon Davis.

The second part of the program will feature Dr. Hugh Livingston, superintendent of the district, who will discuss the tax override measure that will appear on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Report Praises SM's Assessor

San Mateo County Assessor Jack Estes and his staff have received a commendation from State Board of Equalization Chairman George R. Reilly for conducting "one of the best assessment programs in California."

In a report of the assessment practices survey made in the county during 1973, Reilly reports that only five counties in the state had lower coefficients of dispersion, which is a measure of equality of assessment.

Reilly says that Estes has made many improvements in his office since a 1968 survey, the most notable being the implementation of a computer-assisted appraisal program to speed up reappraisals.

Even with the computer assistance, the report notes, it is difficult to keep up with the assessment ratio because of the rapidly increasing market value of residential property in the county.

Appraisals are at least one year behind the market by the time the assessment roll is published, and this factor makes it impossible to reach a true 25 per cent assessment ratio "in the type of real estate market existing in San Mateo County," the report says.

Estes' office, with a staff of 126 employees and a budget of more than $2 million, is engaged in the appraisal of nearly 200,000 properties with a value of more than $10 billion.

Supervisors to Seek Gas Price Posting

The County Board of Supervisors indicated last Tuesday it will instigate a proposal among the county's cities for legislation to require posting of gasoline prices at service stations throughout the county.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson reported, in reply to a question by Board Chairwoman Jean Fassler, that the state has not preempted the matter of price posting and that the county could initiate legislation to require posting.

However, the district attorney said, any county action would affect service stations only in the unincorporated area, which has comparatively few service stations.

Supervisor William H. Royer said he would like to take up the matter with the cities and seek a coordinated legislative program to require price posting.

THE PERFECT HOST
 Paul Masson Burgundy Wine, 5th
 Porterhouse and T-Bone Steak are both featured this week.
 A truly Perfect Host for either of these entrees would be Paul Masson Burgundy Wine. This full-bodied, hearty red wine is at its best when served at room temperature. Removing the cork an hour before serving will provide a desirable breathing period; this will enhance the bouquet of this fine wine.
 Try this delicious wine at $2.15 a fifth.

GIRL SCOUTING

GIRL SCOUT CALENDARS go on sale for $1 from every Bay Area Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout, starting Friday. The January photo is of a Daly City Troop, No. 446, led by Mesdames Pat Knox, Caroline Futrell, and Jewel Drexler. Also featured in the January photo, available nationally, are Daly City Scouts Janet Leong, Donna Salkind and Deborah Thomas.

Of the $1 selling price, 15 cents profit goes immediately into the troop treasury, 50 cents can be credited to each girl's "share of belonging" and the balance is the cost of the calendar sale, so all profits will be used locally. The purchaser may claim 74 cents on each dollar as a tax deduction, charitable contribution.

COUNCIL MEETING, called by a voice vote at the Sep. 18 Oakland meeting, is now scheduled for today from 9:30 a.m. 'til 2 p.m. at the Scottish Rite Memorial Temple, 19th Ave. and Sloat Boulevard in San Francisco. The entire Point Four program including the "share of belonging" segment will be discussed.

CADETTE TROOP NO. 1620 recently delivered the Broadmoor Property Owner's "Grapevine" to earn troop funds. The troop of older Scouts is led by Mesdames Carole Ann Scott, Marty Lewkowitz, Esther LaPeds, and Misses Helen Rogers and Darice Robinson.

Lisa Goodman, Dorene Fratto, Jacki Bender, Laura Canova, Michyle LaPeds, Julie Savignano, Staron Scott, Kim Malaletkin, Sandra Freitas, Joan Battaglia, Kathy Bolton, Lisa Braski, Kathy Hansel, Cynthia Lewkowitz, Geri Ulukou, Carla

Smith, Patty Martin, Pam and Sunday Chung, Kathy Rankin and Tina Sola participated.

BROWNIE TROOP NO. 1810 recently toured Round Table Pizza as guests of the management. Brownie Scouts attending included Gina Cadwell, Chrissy Evankoff, Cindy Pierce, Lorelei Morino, Chris Gumino, Joanna Smith, Anne Thompson, and Yvette Scout.

NEW JUNIORS, led by Mrs. Marilyn O'Tolle also attended. They were Leslie Sylva, Debbie O'Tolle, Francesca Villegas and Cookie Pierce. Adults accompanying the group included Lori Golden and Mesdames Stella Smith, and Roz Morino.

26—THE POST

Wednesday, Oct. 30, 1974

NEW LIAISONS, recently announced by Daly City Association Chairwoman Mrs. Margaret Connolly include Mrs. Carole Ann Scott serving all Cadette troops and Mrs. Dolores Bedrosian serving the Panorama area. ### Ambrosia

In celebration of its 25th Anniversary, All Souls School, South San Francisco, will hold a dinner dance Nov. 2. Don Lipsin (above), gourmet chef and seventh grade teacher, will prepare the feast assisted by his fellow members of the faculty. Festivities will follow Mass at 5:15 p.m. No-host cocktails will be from 6:30 to 7 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 and dancing in the cafeteria. Music will be presented by The Bay Cities Express. Contact the school office or the rectory for details.

Harvest Moon Festival Slated

Carnival rides, refreshments, games and prizes will be featured at the Harvest Moon Festival being sponsored today through Sunday by Mater Dolorosa Church in South San Francisco.

The setting for the four day event will be the parish grounds, Willow and Millie Avenue. During the festival $1500 in cash awards will be made, and children's movie will be shown.

Both Sides of State Propositions

EDITOR'S NOTE — These analyses of California ballot proposals are provided through the courtesy of the League of Women Voters of California and are presented by The Post as a public service.

Proposition 1

State School Building Aid and Earthquake Reconstruction and Replacement Bond Law of 1974

THE SITUATION

Since 1933 the State has enforced design and construction standards for school buildings under the Field Act. However, many schools built before 1933 are still in use and are considered unsafe in the event of an earthquake. School districts are required to repair, replace or abandon such buildings by June 30, 1975. In June 1972 state voters approved a $350 million school construction bond measure, $250 million of which was for loans to local districts for earthquake safety construction. Districts must provide matching funds. In 1974 the Department of Education reported that there are approximately 1250 unsafe school buildings still in use in 225 districts in the State.

Many school districts in California are still experiencing growth, even as other, sometimes neighboring, districts are declining in enrollment. The State has had a program for 22 years of providing loans to school districts that are experiencing increased enrollment, and that have already bonded themselves to the limit allowed by law.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 1 would authorize the issuance by the State of general obligation bonds to provide $150 million for the State School Building Aid Fund. $100 million would be for loans to school districts that are now bonded to legal capacity. $50 million would be available for loans to districts to repair or replace school buildings that do not meet current earthquake standards, or to repair or replace any building damaged in an earthquake occurring after March 1, 1974.

THE QUESTION

Should the State issue general obligation bonds to provide $100 million in loans to growing school districts that are bonded to the legal limit; and $50 million in loans to school districts for earthquake safety construction?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Unsafe schools must be abandoned or repaired by July 1, 1975. Proposition 1 will provide the funds for the repair or replacement of these buildings.
2. Funds will be loaned only to qualified districts.
3. The bulk of the loans will be repaid: 90 per cent of that loaned for unsafe buildings, and 49 per cent of that loaned to growing school districts.
4. Growing districts can qualify only if enrollment projections justify the additional space.
5. Financing of school buildings by bond money is appropriate as the children of future taxpayers will use these schools.
6. The State can sell its bonds more readily and at a more favorable interest rate than can local districts, thus reducing the tax load on the local taxpayer.
7. Previously authorized funds are insufficient to complete the job because of inflation.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

- No official argument against)
1. The entire state shares in the costs of issuing bonds, but only certain areas benefit.
  2. The Legislature has the power to fund needed projects without increasing the State's already high bonded debt.
  3. Better utilization of existing schools, such as the extended day or year-round operation, or reorganizing school districts, should be investigated as alternatives to building more schools.
  4. Many districts are devoting so much of their taxing capacity to retiring local bonds that they are unable to repay state loans.
  5. This measure is misleading in that it serves two purposes.

Proposition 2

Charters for Counties and Cities

THE SITUATION

California counties and cities are either "general law," governed under laws enacted by the Legislature; or "charter," with greater local autonomy permitted through their charters. At present, when local voters adopt, revise, amend, or repeal a charter, these changes must be approved by the Legislature. Approval is in the form of "concurrent resolution" which requires a majority vote of both houses of the Legislature, but does not require the Governor's signature. Although legislative approval has been required since adoption of the 1879 Constitution, no charter or charter change has ever been rejected by the Legislature.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 2 would amend Section 3 of Article XI of the Constitution to permit city or county charters to be adopted, amended, revised or repealed by local voters without legislative approval. Charter changes would continue to be published in the state statutes.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to permit city and county charter provisions adopted by local voters to become effective without legislative approval?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. In 96 years the Legislature has never rejected either a charter or charter amendment. This cumbersome process serves no purpose.
2. Proposition 2 would help streamline the legislative process and save a substantial amount of printing expense.
3. Charters and charter amendments will continue to be published in the official state statutes just as concurrent resolutions are now, thus providing a central depository and official notice to all the people of the State.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

There is no known opposition.

Proposition 3

Postsecondary Education Commission Personnel -- Civil Service

THE SITUATION

Article XXIV of the California Constitution, adopted in 1970, exempts a number of State employees from State Civil Service provisions. Exempt positions include, among others, all legislative, executive and judicial appointees and employees; university, state college, and public school system officers and employees; members of all boards and commissions; and one deputy of each board and commission.

In 1973 the Legislature, following a two year study by its Joint Committee on Master Plan for Higher Education, created the California Postsecondary Education Commission and gave it the responsibility of coordinating all higher education activities and of preparing a comprehensive five year plan for all California public and private postsecondary schools, including vocational and trade schools, junior colleges and colleges and universities. The Commission, which became official on April 1, 1974, is composed of representatives from these educational institutions and 12 public members appointed in equal numbers by the Governor, Assembly Speaker, and Senate Rules Committee.

The Commission replaced the Coordinating Council for Higher Education and has retained the Coordinating Council's staff which is, with the exception of the director, covered by Civil Service provisions. In its proposal to the Legislature, the Joint Committee recommended that the staff of the new commission be composed of educational leaders comparable to those on the staff of the President of the University of California and the Chancellor of California State University and Colleges. These staffs are not covered by Civil Service. To exempt staff serving the new Postsecondary Education Commission requires a constitutional amendment.

A similar measure (Proposition 7 on the June ballot) was defeated by the voters. That measure differed from Proposition 3 in that it would have exempted five deputies. Proposition 3 will create only three new exempt positions.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 3 would add subdivision (n) to Section 4 of Article XXIV of the State Constitution to exempt from civil service the chief administrative officer and three deputies of the California Postsecondary Education Commission.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to exempt from Civil Service provisions the chief administrative officer and three deputies of the California Postsecondary Education Commission?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. In order to recruit the most highly qualified person as director, it is necessary to give him flexibility in selecting his chief assistants.
2. The Commission is just beginning its work of preparing a comprehensive five year plan for California's postsecondary schools. It should be allowed to recruit and keep those persons who are the most qualified to make policy recommendations in specialized areas.
3. The salaries of these employees will be subject to the scrutiny of the State Department of Finance and the Legislative Analyst, and to the approval of the Governor.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. These individuals are employed by the State and should be subject to all the rules and regulations that apply to State employees.
2. The Commission's director is already exempt. No more exemptions are needed.
3. Exempt employees can be paid more than Civil Service employees.
4. The voters have already turned down an almost identical measure in June.

Proposition 4

Regents, University of California

THE SITUATION

The University of California, established in 1868, is governed by a Board of Regents. In operating the University, the Regents are generally free of legislative interference and control. The University has an annual budget of over $1 billion and has 9 campuses (the largest, UCLA and Berkeley, each have enrollments of over 25,000).

There are 24 members of the Board of Regents. Sixteen public members are appointed to 16 year terms by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate. Eight ex officio members who serve on the Board by virtue of their office are: the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the Assembly, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, President of the Alumni Association of the University, President of the University, President of the State Board of Agriculture, and President of the Mechanics Institute of San Francisco. The latter two have been Regents since the University was founded in 1868 as a single campus encouraging agricultural and mechanical arts.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 4 would amend Section 9 of Article IX of the California Constitution to change the composition, terms, and methods of appointment of the Regents of the University of California.

Changes in the composition of the Regents would be as follows: the President of the State Board of Agriculture and Mechanics Institute of San Francisco would be deleted; the Vice President of the Alumni Association would be added.

Public members would be increased from 16 to 18. In addition the Regents, at their option, would be permitted to appoint one faculty member and one student enrolled at a campus of the University of California. Thus, the size of the Board of Regents would be increased to 25, with a possible maximum of 27.

Regents' terms would be shortened from 16 years to 12 years. Faculty and student representatives would serve for not less than one year.

The method of appointment by the Governor would also be revised. No appointment would be permitted in the first year of any term (appointments would be omitted every fourth year). A policy statement would be added to the Constitution requiring that Regents be broadly reflective of economic, cultural and social diversity.

In making appointments the Governor would be required to consult an Advisory Committee composed of the Speaker of the Assembly, two public members appointed by the Speaker, President pro tempore of the State Senate, two public members appointed by the Senate Rules Committee, two public members appointed by the Governor, Chairman of the Board of Regents, a University of California faculty member chosen by the Academic Senate, a U.C. student chosen by the Council of Student Body Presidents, and U.C. alumnus chosen by the Alumni association. Public members would serve for four years.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to change the composition and terms of the Regents of the University of California and to change the method by which the Governor may make appointments to the Regents?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The present selection method does not assure diversity. The typical appointee to the Board of Regents has been white, male, at least middle-aged, well educated and financially successful. Competence is not the monopoly of any one class or group.
2. The 16 year term of office is too long. It may result in isolation or insensitivity to change. With 12 year terms, Regents will have time to learn the crucial and sensitive role of the University and still be protected from political pressures.
3. Having a faculty member and a student on the Board can add a valuable perspective to the Regents' deliberations. If adding these seats proves unworkable or is abused, the Regents can eliminate them.
4. It is unfair to have two specific economic interest groups represented (agriculture and mechanics). Why should these groups be guaranteed a voice when other economic interests are not?

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Nothing now prohibits the Governor and the State Senate from insuring that the Board reflects broad cultural and social diversity. It is unnecessary to place this requirement in the Constitution. It could in time lead to the creation of a quota system.
2. A one year term of office is too short a time for students and faculty members to gain the experience necessary to make major decisions affecting the University.
3. Alumni are already represented by the President of the Alumni Association. Another representative is unnecessary.
4. The President of the State Board of Agriculture should be retained because agriculture is California's number one industry. The University has played a major role in developing agriculture and should continue to do so.

Proposition 5

Residence of Local Government Employees

THE SITUATION

California law prohibits general law cities and counties from requiring residency as a condition of employment. However, the Constitution permits charter cities to determine qualifications for their employees. The right for charter cities to impose residency requirements was upheld in 1973 by the California Supreme Court.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 5 would add Section 10.5 to Article XI of the Constitution and would prohibit any city or county, including charter cities and counties, or public districts, from imposing residency requirements on its employees. It would permit local governments to require that employees live within a reasonable and specific distance of their work.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to prohibit charter cities and counties from imposing residency requirements on their employees?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Citizens of charter cities deserve to have the highest quality employees possible. They should not be limited in the search for these employees by residency requirements which limit the number of potential candidates.
2. Residency requirements are a potential tool for setting up political machines. They are a way of insuring that city employees live in the city and vote — this may subject the employee to political pressure.
3. Many municipalities spend a great deal of money training young people for long term employment only to lose them to other jurisdictions that have no residency requirements.
4. Lack of low or moderate cost housing in some cities would penalize employees who would have to pay higher living costs if forced to live within city boundaries.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. A residency requirement does not prevent recruitment anywhere, but simply means that after accepting employment the individual is expected to also accept the community that supports him.
2. Local voters may decide if the residency requirement has restricted their government's ability to recruit those persons with technical and special skills not available within their boundaries. If they feel it has, they may change the requirement.
3. A residency requirement prevents the creation of a super-class of public employees who are willing to accept all the benefits of public employment, including job security and fringe benefits, and who then reside in a community that has a lower tax base or is isolated from the social and economic problems with which the public employees are expected to deal.
4. Proposition 5 permits local governments to require employees to live within a "reasonable and specific distance" of their work. The measure does not indicate how governments are supposed to make this determination.

Proposition 6

Homeowners and Renters Relief

THE SITUATION

The California Constitution now permits the Legislature to grant homeowners property tax exemptions at not less than $750 of assessed valuation. In 1973, the Legislature raised the homeowners' exemption to $1,750 of the assessed value, and granted qualified renters a deduction on their California income tax. Article XIII, Section 1(d) permits the Legislature to grant future increases, and authorizes the State to reimburse local governments for any losses incurred by the homeowners exemption. The Legislature may reduce the homeowners' property tax exemption to as low as $750 of assessed value.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 6 would raise the minimum homeowners' exemption in the Constitution from $750 to $1,750 of assessed value, and prohibit the Legislature from reducing the exemption below this minimum. It would also require benefits for renters comparable to any future homeowners' property tax exemption increases granted by the Legislature. Subventions to local governments would be continued. This measure further provides that, if Proposition 8 also passes, the minimum exemption will be raised from $3000 to $7000 of market value (this is comparable to raising the exemption from $750 to $1,750 of assessed value, since market value is four times assessed value.)

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to raise the minimum homeowners' property tax exemption from $750 to $1,750 of assessed value, and assure that renters will receive benefits comparable to any increases granted homeowners?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The property tax places a heavy burden on the homeowner. The present exemption of $1,750 gives some needed relief, and any lowering of this amount would be felt mainly by those in the lower income brackets.
2. The constitutional minimum should conform to the present $1,750 exemption to insure that this figure cannot be lowered by a future Legislature.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. The $1,750 figure has been in effect too short a time for anyone to conclude that this should be a permanent minimum.
2. The Legislature should have the responsibility for maintaining an appropriate balance between property taxes and other forms of taxation, and an arbitrary figure should not be frozen into the Constitution.

Proposition 7

Declaration of Rights

THE SITUATION

Article I of the California Constitution declares the fundamental rights of the people of the State. Some of these rights date back to the original Constitution of 1849, and the Article was substantially expanded in the Constitution of 1879. Although amended many times since, much of the original language remains. Some of the provisions have been declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court; some rights guaranteed by the United States Constitution are omitted; and some sections need clarification or are now considered to be more suitable for legislation than for a constitution. The Constitution Revision Commission studied revisions for Article I for four years before making its recommendations to the Legislature. Proposition 7 represents the recommendations of both the Commission and the Legislature for a new Article I to the California Constitution.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 7 would reorganize and revise Article I of the California Constitution to: clarify existing law, put into the Constitution some rights which now exist in the United States Constitution, define the rights of those charged with crime, authorize the Legislature to revise eminent domain proceedings, and delete material suitable for statutory enactment.

Newly guaranteed by the California Constitution would be: the right to an interpreter for a criminal defendant who cannot understand English; permission for a court to grant release on one's own recognizance; and the declaration that property rights of non-citizens are the same as for citizens.

Sections to be transferred from the Constitution to statute involve detailed rules of criminal indictment procedure and detailed rules of procedure in criminal prosecutions for libel.

THE QUESTION

Should Article I of the California Constitution be reorganized to clarify existing rights, add rights not now guaranteed by the California Constitution, and delegate certain procedural matters to the Legislature for enactment?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Proposition 7 contains the recommendations of the California Constitution Revision Commission for Article I and was adopted by the Legislature after four years of study by the Commission.
2. Proposition 7 contains all rights now enjoyed by Californians and places in our State Constitution some of the rights enjoyed by Californians as citizens of the United States, but which are not now in our State Constitution.
3. A yes vote will help modernize and shorten California's Constitution.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Technical portions of this measure should be voted on separately from controversial portions.

Proposition 8

Taxation and State Funds

THE SITUATION

Article XIII of the State Constitution governs the taxing powers of state and local government. Through a number of amendments in the past 96 years the Article has grown to 13,700 words. Some of the provisions are now obsolete, some are ambiguous as to meaning, and some contain inequities. The Constitution Revision Commission recommended revision of Article XIII. In addition, a "blue ribbon task force" of staff from both Houses of the Legislature, the Department of Finance, and a group of outside experts was consulted by the Legislature before the proposed revision was adopted and placed on the ballot as Proposition 8.

THE PROPOSAL

- Key provisions of the new Article XIII would:
1. Delete obsolete material, clarify wording, shorten the Constitution by 8,200 words; transfer some provisions to statute.
  2. Allow the Legislature to change the method of taxing timber property.
  3. Eliminate existing inequities in exemptions among disabled veterans.
  4. Require any statewide property tax, if one should be imposed, to be applied equally throughout the state.
  5. Extend exemption for religious property to that which is rented as well as owned.
  6. Allow the Legislature to authorize county boards to exempt from taxation real property if the tax is less than the cost of collecting the taxes.

THE QUESTION

Should Article XIII of the Constitution relating to revenue and taxation be revised?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Although the proposal shortens the Article by 8,200 words, it makes only technical changes in the Constitution and clarifies the meaning of existing sections.
2. This amendment will make our Constitution more readable and workable. None of the sections removed from the Constitution and transferred to statute are of a substantive nature.
3. This revision was carefully developed by experts both in and out of government.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

There is no known opposition.

Proposition 9

Recall of Public Officers

THE SITUATION

The Constitution gives voters the right to remove elected officials through the recall process. If enough qualified voters sign a petition requesting it, an election to recall the officer is held. It takes from 3 1/2 to 7 1/2 months for gathering signatures and handling the recall procedure. The Constitution now provides that recall proceedings cannot be started against an officer until he has held his office for at least six months, except proceedings can be started against a state legislator after 5 days in office. Although the Constitutional Article relating to recall specifically mentions other local elected officials, it does not mention officers of special districts (such as water or transit). Provisions regarding the number of signatures needed on a recall petition against a state officer elected by district could be interpreted two ways. The Constitution does not specify the number of days allowed for gathering signatures on a recall petition.

THE PROPOSAL

This measure proposes to revise the Article XXIII of the California Constitution relating to recall in order to make the law more concise and the language easier to understand. About 75% of the provisions detailing the procedures of recall would be transferred to statutes.

Under this Proposition:

1. The electors are given the right to recall any elected officer.
2. The waiting period or "grace period" before recall of a state officer can be started would be eliminated.
3. The number of signatures needed on a petition to recall an officer elected by district would be made specific.
4. The time period for gathering signatures on a petition would be set at 160 days and the Secretary of State would be required to keep a continuous count of the signatures.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be revised to shorten and clarify the law on recall and to delete technical details which would be transferred to the statutes?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. This Proposition will continue the job of revision begun several years ago to modernize our State Constitution.
2. This proposal clearly defines "recall" as "the power of the electors to remove an elective officer." That right may not be taken away.
3. The procedures for recalling public officials are set forth in clear and simple language as compared with present provisions which only confuse and leave these procedures in doubt.
4. Removing the "grace period" strengthens the people's right to recall unprincipled or unresponsive representatives at any time.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Removal of the "grace period" could subject an elected official to recall proceedings before he has had time to show whether or not he has the ability and intention to properly perform the duties of his office.
2. Many procedural details of recall are transferred from the Constitution to statute where they can be changed by the Legislature. Giving the Legislature this power could allow for abuse of power, since legislators themselves are subject to recall.
3. The percentage of signatures necessary for a successful recall is a detail that is frozen into the Constitution by this revision, which contradicts the claim that it makes the law more flexible.
4. This measure does nothing to clear up what is meant by the officer being "reimbursed by the State for his recall election expenses."

Proposition 10

Right to Vote

THE SITUATION

The language of Article II of the California Constitution relating to ex-felons' right to vote was included in California's original Constitution of 1849 and has never been changed. Article II permanently disqualifies from voting electors who have been convicted of infamous crimes, embezzlement, or misappropriation of public money. (The right can be restored by pardon.)

Until 1966 "infamous crimes" was construed to mean "any felony". Following a California Supreme Court ruling that year disenfranchisement was limited to ex-felons whose crimes make them a potential threat to the "integrity of the election." The determination of which crimes constitute such a threat has been left to county Registrars of Voters and varies throughout California's 58 counties. In a recent decision the California Supreme Court noted that the possibility of election fraud had diminished radically in California and that permanent disqualification of convicted felons to protect the election process was no longer necessary.

Article II also excludes mentally deficient and insane persons from the right to vote and has been interpreted by some to be permanent disenfranchisement even after a person recovers.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 10 would amend Article II to restore the right to vote to convicted felons after they have completed their prison terms and finished parole. It would also require disqualification of electors only while they are "mentally incompetent."

THE QUESTION

Should convicted felons who have completed their prison terms and parole be permitted to register to vote; and should the term "mentally incompetent" be substituted for existing language relating to mentally deficient or insane persons?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The right to vote is essential in a democratic society and there is no justification for denying this right after a felon has fully paid the price that society has demanded.
2. Historically, exclusion of ex-felons from voting was based on a need to prevent election fraud. With modern election processes and safeguards, permanent loss of the right to vote for convicted felons is no longer needed in order to achieve an honest election.
3. Some California counties have restored voting rights to ex-felons and some have not. And among counties restoring the right there is no uniformity as to which offenses still disqualify a person from voting. Such a fundamental right should not depend on where one lives.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Denial of the vote to convicted felons is a deep-rooted tradition in this country and is as much a part of the overall discipline as is imprisonment. It is important to strengthen respect for law; passage of this measure could have the opposite effect.
2. Before an ex-felon is given the right to vote, there should be some evidence that he is ready to become a responsible citizen.
3. In some instances, conviction of a felony calls for no prison term, but only probation. This measure does not disqualify from voting those convicted felons who are on probation. If felons are denied suffrage while in prison and while on parole, the denial should also apply during probation.

Proposition 11

Miscellaneous Language

Changes Regarding Gender

THE SITUATION

In standard English usage the word "man", pronouns such as "he" and "him," and such terms as "chairman" and "workman" are understood to refer to either man or woman where applicable. However, because of changes in social and political thought, the practice has recently been subject to some criticism. As the Constitution Revision Commission has revised sections of the State Constitution it has deleted masculine references and replaced them with words that are neutral in gender.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 11 would eliminate references to masculine gender from portions of the California Constitution. For example, "Congressman" is changed to "representative in Congress"; "Assemblemen" is changed to "members of the Assembly"; and "Chairman" is changed to "presiding officer". Instead of referring to the Governor as "he," the amendment repeats the word "Governor". The amendment makes no substantive changes in the Constitution.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to eliminate masculine references and replace these with words which draw no distinction between men and women?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Since a woman may hold state office it is not proper to describe the position with "he" or "him" or any other masculine description.
2. Proposition 11 makes no substantive changes in the Constitution — it merely recognizes equal opportunity for men and women.
3. It is logical that these changes be made consistent with similar proposed constitutional revisions.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. The California Constitution now recognizes equal opportunity for men and women; there is no need to revise the Constitution for this reason.
2. Standard English usage acknowledges terms such as "he" and "man" to stand for both man and woman. We do not need to change the language in order to recognize equal rights.
3. We are already burdened by too many meaningless banalities coming from the government. We should not add more.

Proposition 12

Public Utilities

THE SITUATION

Article XII of the California Constitution relating to public utilities originated at the 1879 Constitutional Convention, and has been amended five times since. There have been two previous efforts to revise Article XII on the recommendation of the Constitution Revision Commission. However, Proposition 12 is the first time that the public utilities provisions have been presented to the voters in a separate measure.

The Public Utilities Commission is responsible for regulating the rates and service standards of privately owned public utilities such as truck, bus, airline, pipeline, electric, telephone, gas and warehouse companies. The Legislature has broad authority under Article XII to give regulatory power to the Commission.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 12 revises Article XII of the State Constitution relating to the regulation of public utilities by the Public Utilities Commission. The revision eliminates obsolete provisions; simplifies and reduces by 81 per cent the language of Article XII. Some detailed provisions relating to the functions of the Public Utilities Commission are transferred to statutes enacted by the Legislature; the general authority for the Commission to establish its own procedures and fix rates on public utilities is transferred from statute to the Constitution. Section 9 of revised Article II declared that the provisions of this article restate, but make no substantive change in, all related provisions of the Constitution in effect immediately prior to the effective date of this amendment.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to revise Article XII relating to public utilities?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Article XII has become a tangled mass of words containing much unnecessary detail. Proposition 12 simplifies this Article and makes it easier for the average citizen to understand.
2. Proposition 12 sets forth with certainty the independent constitutional authority of the Public Utilities Commission to regulate public utilities and strengthens that authority by more clearly defining the Commission's powers and jurisdictions.
3. Section 9 of Proposition 12 guarantees that the change in wording will make no substantive change in provisions in effect at the time Proposition 12 is adopted.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

There is no known organized opposition.

Proposition 13

San Diego County Judicial Districts

THE SITUATION

The State Constitution provides that the Legislature may divide each county into municipal and justice court districts. Districts with 40,000 population are Municipal Districts; those with less than 40,000 population are Justice Court Districts. The Legislature is prohibited from dividing a city into more than one district by the 1950 amendment to the Constitution which reorganized the court system of the state. In revising Article VI, the Judicial Article, the Constitution Revision Commission retained this prohibition.

San Diego city boundaries extend from the city of Escondido in the north to the Mexican border. The present San Diego Municipal Court District includes all the city of San Diego, plus the cities of Chula Vista and Imperial Beach. National City and Coronado are served by Justice Courts. That portion of the city of San Diego adjacent to the Mexican border is connected to the main part of the city only by a long narrow strip extending under San Diego Bay. Residents of this southern section, together with those of the cities of Chula Vista, Coronado, National City, and Imperial Beach would like to form their own Municipal Court District.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 13 would amend Article VI of the State Constitution to add Section 5.5 which would permit any city in San Diego County to be divided into more than one municipal court or justice court district if the Legislature determines that unusual geographic conditions exist.

If Proposition 13 passes, legislation already approved will create a South Bay Municipal Court District to include the cities of Chula Vista, Coronado, National City, Imperial Beach and such contiguous area as determined by the Board of Supervisors of San Diego County.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to permit any city in San Diego County to be divided into more than one municipal court or justice court district if the Legislature determines that unusual geographic conditions exist?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The measure would allow the Legislature to solve a geographical problem unique to San Diego County by permitting the creation of a compact municipal court district for several small cities which share a common community interest.
2. Lawyers, witnesses, plaintiffs, defendants, law enforcement personnel and others involved with the court process would have easy access to a centrally located local court.
3. The measure would result in more efficient and simpler administration of justice in San Diego County because it could consolidate two small judicial districts into one compact municipal district.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. The measure would destroy the constitutional provision of one municipal court district for a city by allowing any city in San Diego County to be divided into more than one district. This is disruptive of local city government.
2. This is an attempt by strictly local interests to establish a separate court in an area already served by the San Diego Municipal Court. To allow the establishment of a small local court is a step backward in the efficient administration of justice.
3. If such an amendment is in the best interests of the State, the amendment should be worded so as to apply to any city in the State where unusual geographic conditions exist.

Proposition 14

State College System

THE SITUATION

The Legislature has the authority to create the state agency which governs the California State University and Colleges. The Constitution, by a 1970 amendment, requires that the Speaker of the Assembly be an ex-officio member of the governing board. The 19 campuses of CSUC are administered by a 21 member Board of Trustees composed of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Speaker of the Assembly, the appointed chief executive officer of the CSUC system, and 16 public members appointed to eight year terms by the Governor, with the approval of the Senate.

The president pro tempore of the Senate is elected by his fellow Senators and serves as chairman of the Senate's five-member Rules Committee.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 14 would amend Article XX, Section 23 of the California Constitution to make the president pro tempore of the Senate an ex-officio member of any state agency charged with the management, administration and control of the California State University and Colleges.

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to add the president pro tempore as an ex-officio member of the governing board of the State College System?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. The CSUC governing board has tremendous impact on state educational policy. It should have some members who are directly responsible to the people.
2. Both houses of the Legislature should be represented on the Board. The Lieutenant Governor, although the President of the Senate, represents the executive branch because he has little or no day-to-day contact with the operations of the Senate.
3. The president pro tem is the appropriate Senate representative because he is the elected leader of all the state senators.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. California's institutions of higher education must be kept free from political pressures. Adding one more political position to the governing board of the CSUC, increases the danger of partisan political influence.
2. The Senate is already represented through the Lieutenant Governor who is the President of the Senate. This would give the Senate double the representation of the Assembly.
3. There is no reason for the president pro tempore to be on the governing board of CSUC when he is not a member of the University of California Board of Regents.

Proposition 15

Low Rent Housing

THE SITUATION

In 1950 California voters adopted an initiative constitutional amendment which added Article XXXIV to the California Constitution. This Article prohibits any state public body, including cities and counties, from developing, constructing, or acquiring a low rent housing project until an election is held and a majority of the voters of the city or county where the project is located give their approval. The Article defines low rent housing as government-aided development composed of apartment or other living quarters for persons or families who do not have enough income to live in decent safe and sanitary homes without overcrowding.

Prior to the passage of this Article, the State of California had, in 1938, enacted the Housing Authority Law which permits California cities and counties to set up a housing authority upon approval of the local governing body. This law was in response to the United States Housing Act approved by Congress in 1937 to remedy unsafe and unsanitary housing conditions, and to increase housing available to low income families. The Act makes federal funds available to local housing authorities for low rent housing.

Voters in some cities and counties tried to overrule their governing bodies' approval of housing projects, but in 1950 the California Supreme Court ruled that approval of these projects was not a legislative act and not, therefore, subject to voter approval. A successful initiative petition drive was started shortly after this decision, and the proposed Article 34 of the California Constitution was approved by state voters in November 1950.

Since 1950 an estimated 48% of the housing units submitted to voters for approval have been rejected. The Legislature estimates that 2.5 million persons in California would qualify for subsidized housing if it were available.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 15 would repeal all of Article XXXIV of the California Constitution.

THE QUESTION

Should the voters repeal Article XXXIV of the California Constitution which requires that low rent housing may not be developed by a public body until the voters in the affected city or county approve?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Elections for the approval of public housing projects are an expensive and unnecessary use of public funds.
2. Since the adoption of Article XXXIV, rejected referenda have meant the loss of more than 16,000 low rent units.
3. Since subsidy for the funding for conventional public housing comes from the federal government, removal of the delay in filing applications because of the local election restriction would give California more freedom to obtain funds when they are available.
4. The provision for a referendum on housing, if it is needed and desirable, should not be frozen into the California

Wednesday, Oct. 30, 1974 THE POST

nia Constitution. A yes vote would leave the Legislature free to enact statutes to meet needs as they arise.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. Low cost public housing projects are removed from the tax rolls. Services may cost taxpayers more than the in-lieu payments which the projects make to local government. Taxpayers should make the decision if they want to increase their tax burden.
2. More than 70% of all referenda held since Article XXXIV was adopted have been approved.
3. Communities should seek other types of low cost housing which do not remove property from the tax rolls.
4. Statutes can be changed at any time. The requirement for a referendum should be kept in the Constitution where only the people can change it.

Proposition 16

Student Tuition, University of California

THE SITUATION

The Constitution now gives the Board of Regents of the University of California power to operate, control, and administer the University. In contrast, the Legislature has authority to establish certain regulations, including the amount of student fees for the State University and College System and the community colleges.

The Board of Regents determines if fees will be charged to University of California students, for what purpose, and for how much. Current registration and education fees are each $100 a quarter, plus various special campus fees such as parking. Graduate students pay an additional $20 a quarter, and non-residents must pay $500 more per quarter. The University collects approximately $30 million from these "educational fees" out of an annual budget in excess of $1 billion.

THE PROPOSAL

Proposition 16 would add Section 9.1 to Article IX of the Constitution to transfer to the Legislature the power to determine whether students at the University of California shall be charged for instruction and instructional facilities. This measure would give the Legislature the power to determine such charges, but stipulates that current charges shall remain in force until changed by the Legislature. Proposition 16 applies only to the $100 a quarter "education fee".

THE QUESTION

Should the Constitution be amended to give the Legislature rather than the Board of Regents the power to determine the amount of fees, if any, which are levied on University of California students?

ARGUMENTS FOR

1. Student charges at all public institutions of higher learning should be determined by one agency. The Legislature already has the authority for the State College and University System and for community colleges; it should have the same authority over the University of California.
2. The Board of Regents should not be able to levy charges independently because their actions can, by raising the cost of education, cause students to transfer to other institutions for which the Regents have no responsibility.
3. Administration of the University of California remains solely with the Board of Regents.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

1. The University should remain entirely independent of political influence in the administration of its affairs as the Constitution intended it should be.
2. Proposition 16 merely says that current fees will remain in force until changed by the Legislature. If the Legislature should decide to eliminate tuition, all of the cost of running the University would be transferred to the taxpayer.

Proposition 17

Wild and Scenic Rivers

THE SITUATION

On the Stanislaus River in Central California, the Army Corps of Engineers is beginning construction of the New Melones Dam, a 625 foot high earth and rockfill structure which, when completed, will be the second highest earthen dam in the United States. It will have a storage capacity of 2,400,000 acre feet of water. The State Water Resources Control Board has ruled that the reservoir could be only partially filled until a need for the water is shown. The federal government has challenged in the courts the right of the State to impose these restrictions on the federal government.

The dam reservoir will be developed and operated by the United States Bureau of Reclamation as an integrated part of the Central Valley Project. Water conserved by the dam will be assigned to Central Valley Counties for irrigation, which the river basin through which the Stanislaus flows receiving priority. The dam will provide flood protection.

Inundated by the New Melones Reservoir will be rapids used by kayakers and rafters. Wildlife habitat, natural bridges, limestone caves, trout fishing and goldpanning streams, hiking and backpacking trails, and archeological sites will also be flooded. The Reservoir will be developed for recreational use. Its 20 square miles of water could serve 4 million visitors a year (although the figure is expected to be less because of competition from other reservoirs in the area).

On the lower stretch of the river, vegetation is now dying because of upstream water diversions and the poor quality of agriculture waste-water returned to the river. After New Melones Dam is built, the federal government proposes year round release of water to preserve the vegetation and improve the salmon fishery on the lower river. They also propose a program of acquisition of some riverside lands as wildlife habitat to partially replace that lost by filling the reservoir. Flood control provided by the dam may result in expansion of agriculture and housing developments to the detriment of wildlife habitat.

The California Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1972 declares that certain scenic portions of specified northern California rivers are to be preserved in a natural, flowing condition. A successful initiative petition drive to amend that Act to include portions of the Stanislaus was mounted by over 30,000 persons led by a citizens group, Friends of the River.

THE PROPOSAL

This initiative statute would place designated portions of the Stanislaus River in the Wild and Scenic Rivers System, but would not prohibit construction of structures necessary for flood protection along the river. Although this would prevent the construction of storage dams by state and local governments, it would not directly affect the authority of the federal government to construct the New Melones Dam and Reservoir. But opponents of the dam hope that the vote will deter the federal government from proceeding with the project.

The sections of the Stanislaus protected by the measure include a nine mile whitewater stretch upstream, from Camp Nine to Parrot's Ferry, and a lower section from 100 yards below Goodwin Dam to the junction of the San Joaquin River.

The State Resources Agency would be required to prepare a plan to preserve the scenic, fishing, wildlife and

It's Time to Select Roses for Garden Next Year

By IVA NEWMAN

Late October and early November is about as long as you can wait to make a final selection of the roses you want to add to your garden. If you are ordering your rose plants from a grower such as Armstrong's and Jackson & Perkins, you should keep in mind that orders are filled in the order of their arrival, so it is first come, first served and like apples in a supermarket display the biggest ones go first.

Rose plants are graded under a standard established by the American Association of Nurserymen and most carry a tag which states that they are a 1, 1½, or 2 grade. Most nurseries carry only the number one grade and rosarians refuse to accept anything but the number one grade plant. They feel that it is a waste of time and money to buy inferior plants as it takes them so much longer to develop into good producers.

A #1 grade hybrid tea and grandiflora must have three or more strong canes which are 18 inches long or longer before they are cut back for shipping. The diameter of the cut canes is a clue to their length as well as to the vigor of the rose plant. A #1½ grade hybrid tea and grandiflora, such as is often carried by discount houses, are only required to have two canes 15 inches and up and a #2 plant isn't worth carrying home as a gift. These #2 plants will cost much more in fertilizer, water, care and time than the most expensive #1 plant.

Before ordering a rose that you have never seen growing, do a little research. Home owners in this area are very fortunate in that they have two big public rose gardens where most of the new roses are grown for a year or two before they are released to the public. In the actual color of the flowers and you can see the adult size of the plants and their habit of growth. This last is important as you need to know how much room each these gardens you can see plant will need and whether it should be planted to the rear or foreground of the rose bed because of its height.

Rose Garden

The Oakland Rose Garden, known as the Morcom Amphitheater of Roses, is at the end of Jean Street just a block or two from Grand Avenue. After you pass Lake Merritt watch for the Rose garden sign. George Shiraki, curator of the garden, is a most knowledgeable rosarian and most gracious in helping visitors. The San Francisco Rose Garden is located in Golden Gate Park. As Oakland and Peninsula climates are so similar the Oakland Rose Garden will more accurately portray how a given variety will grow and produce in Peninsula gardens. Both gardens are putting on their fall display.

Never buy a rose that has been grown in a gallon can or any container smaller than an egg can. This does not apply to miniatures which do very well in a 4-inch plant bands while young and a six to seven-inch pot when full grown. Neither does this apply to the nurseries that put up their bare-root plants as soon as they are received as they feel that there will be less disturbance of the newly formed feeder roots when they are pulled out for customers and also customers can see the individual plants better than when they are heeled in in bunches. For best results these plants should be planted as soon as they are brought home. This is not so for plants that are shipped through the mail. Mail-order plants should be unpacked immediately and placed in water overnight before planting. If planting must wait several days then the roses should be heeled in (laid at a slant in a shallow trench in a shaded place with the roots and bud union well covered with wet soil). The sooner all bare root roses are planted the better so don't leave heeled in roses too long.

There are many hundreds of roses from which to make a choice. Some produce prize winning flowers but are scanty producers. Others produce lavishly but while the blooms are lovely they may have a flaw that keeps them off the Queen's table. Some, of course, produce an abundance of almost perfect, long stemmed beauties that win consistently.

Touch of Venus

One of our favorites that fits beautifully into this later category is Touch of Venus, a hybrid tea with snowy-white blooms with a delicate touch of pink on the edges of the petals and a rich fragrance. We have two plants and we have been able to cut fine, exhibition type blooms with 18 to 24 inch stems off these plants every few days from early May until we force them dormant by pruning them. The plants average six to seven feet in height and approximately four feet in diameter. Another fine quality, which we need because our plants edge the driveway, is their ability to withstand reflected heat.

Another highly prized rose in our garden is Pascali, probably the most popular white rose in the world and one of the top winners in shows all over the United States as well as being All-America Winner for 1969. The plants are about five feet tall, around three feet in diameter and here again we can cut long-stemmed blooms practically every day of the year.

A pink rose that we rate very highly is Century Two. The color of this rose in the Armstrong catalog is most misleading as the color is a clean, shimmering medium pink without a touch of blue. The plant grows approximately six feet tall with a three foot spread. It has classic, large urn-shaped buds that open to high-centered exhibition blooms, and the plants are generous bloomers.

Duet is a glowing, soft salmon pink flowered bush that is always in bloom. The flowers are well enough shaped to be a consistent winner of blue ribbons and a joy to use in arrangements. The plants grow about 5 feet high with a four-foot spread.

Another of our big favorites is Lemon Spice one of the most fragrant roses we grow. We have this rose at the entrance to our drive and it never fails to stop walkers and joggers. It is very floriferous with light to medium yellow flowers with a good enough form to capture a fair share of blue ribbons.

We did not grow the 1975 All-Americas this time but from what we have seen of these winners we feel that Oregold is a deep yellow hybrid tea that we must have. It was in the Golden Bear Rose Society's blue ribbon garden at the San Mateo County Floral Fiesta this year and if it can do that well when grown in an egg can it will be magnificent in the garden.

A strong influence in our selection of roses is the amount of spraying needed to keep the plants clean and healthy. We have sprayed approximately once a month this year and our plants are clean even though they have had only a minimum of care.

TECH CENTER

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Henry Quest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dieter W. Quest of 171 Madera Ave., San Carlos, has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Sheppard for specialized training as a dental specialist.

IT'S SIMPLE...

BUT WORKS WONDERS

A paper clip organizes contracts . . . preserves records . . . files batches of documents . . . keeps order in a chaotic business world.

The newspaper is a simple idea that works wonders, too. It moves merchandise . . . doctors the economy . . . distributes jobs . . . finds people to do jobs . . . informs, educates and entertains.

When you want to sell, buy, rent, hire or announce . . . think of the simple idea that works.
